DELHI POLICE DETAIN 24 DU STUDENTS OVER BBC DOCU

The Delhi police on Friday detained 24 students from the Delhi University's arts faculty for planning to screen the controversial BBC documentary on the 2002 Godhra riots. The action comes days after a similar ruckus at JNU and Jamia Millia Islamia over the documentary's screening. Delhi University Proctor Rajni Abbi said the students' outfits had not sought the administration's permission.

Notice to Pak to review & modify Indus water pact

Islamabad has three months to open talks

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

FOR the first time, India has put Pakistan on notice seeking a review and modification of the Indus Water Treaty negotiated by the World Bank and signed by both sides in 1960. The notice was sent on January 25 through the existing mechanism of the Indus Water commissioners. Pakistan has three months to get to the talks table to rectify a material breach flagged by India of the treaty.

While the treaty provides India absolute control of the eastern rivers of the Indus, which are Ravi, Sutlej and Beas, it lets Pakistan make unrestricted use of the western rivers — the Indus, Jhelum and Chenab.

India, though, is permitted to use the western rivers for domestic, non-consumptive, agricultural and generation of hydro-electric power, subject to conditions in the treaty on their design and operation.

In 2018, India commissioned the Kishanganga hydroelectric power plant (330 MW) on its side of the Jhelum's tributary. A bigger Ratle power plant (850 MW) is under construction across the Chenab's tributary.

Pakistan objected to their design and in 2015 sought a neutral expert to sort out the matter. India was okay with it. But a year later, Pakistan unilaterally retracted the request and sought a court of arbitration instead. India opposed it and the World Bank put the matter on ice in December 2016.

Since the dispute remained unresolved, the World Bank on March 31, 2022 resumed the process of appointing a neutral expert and a chairman for a court of arbitration. "Despite repeated efforts by India to find a mutually agreeable way forward, Pakistan refused to discuss the issue during the five meetings of the Permanent Indus Commission from 2017 to 2022," sources said.

However, parallel consideration of the same issue by two different mechanisms is not covered under the treaty. "India has always been a steadfast supporter and a responsible partner in the IWT. Pakistan's actions have adversely impinged on the provisions of IWT and forced India to issue an appropriate notice for modification of IWT," said sources.

Nuts & bolts of the dispute

While Indus, Jhelum and Chenab are for Pakistan under the treaty, India can build hydroelectric power plants subject to design approval

India has already built a hydroelectric power plant on Jhelum and is constructing another on Chenab

In 2015, Pakistan objected to their design and wanted a neutral expert to sort it out. India agreed

A year later, Pakistan sought a court of arbitration instead. It was India's turn to object, saying two parallel negotiations can't be allowed under the treaty

Ballari SC/ST hostel evicts students post protest against bad food

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR @ Ballari

Students leaving for their homes after being evicted by hostel authorities. (Right) students outside the hostel | EXPRESS

A PROTEST by students of a SC/ST hostel in front of Ballari Deputy Commissioner (DC) Pavan Kumar Malapati's residence late Wednesday night led to their eviction by the hostel authorities.The students carried a bucket full of chicken curry while staging the protest. They were venting their ire against the alleged poor quality of food being served at the hostel.

The protest prompted the DC to direct the Education Department to take action against 25 students. In retaliation, the students registered a complaint with the state chief secretary against Malapati, in Bengaluru. The students complained that the chicken meal that was served to them in the hostel was tasteless and of poor quality. When the same food was repeated on Wednesday, they got angry and decided to march to the DC's residence. When the DC saw the students holding the bucket of curry and coming to his residence late night, he asked them to return, but they continued with their protest.

Ballari in-charge minister B Sriramulu slammed the students who went to protest in front of the DC's residence late night.

"If the students have issues, let them give it in writing to the DC. We will ensure that the matter will be looked into," he said.

The administration is still unsure on what action needs to be taken against the protesting students.

SIDDU DEMANDS SUSPENSION OF DC

Senior Congress leader and former CM Siddaramaiah on Friday urged the state government to suspend the Ballari deputy commissioner for asking college students to vacate the hostel after they protested against poor quality food served in the hostel. P6

'SANTRO' RAVI OVERDOSES ON TABS, HOSPITALISED

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

FIFTY-one-year-old KS Manjunath, alias 'Santro' Ravi, the 'power' broker allegedly involved in 'police transfers' and presently in Criminal Investigation Department (CID) custody, was on Thursday night rushed to Victoria Hospital after he developed health complications when he popped in 10 tablets meant for treating diabetes.

Ravi, suffering from various ailments, is said to have taken the tablets on an empty stomach. His condition is said to be stable.

Ravi is accused of allegedly raping his wife, sexual assault, dowry and cases under SC/ST Prevention of Atrocity Act.

The woman, in her complaint, had alleged that she had approached him for a job, but was drugged, videographed and raped, before being forced to marry him. When she threatened him, he filed a false case against her and sent her to jail. Photos of him hobnobbing with top political leaders, especially BJP ministers, MLAs and bureaucrats went viral on social media, besides audio clips of him indicating his alleged involvement in the 'police transfer' scam. Rahul drops off Yatra after alleged breach of security

Congress fumes

"Security arrangements in Jammu were good. But what happened now? There was a serious security lapse. There was virtually no security during the yatra in the Valley today," alleged Congress leader K C Venugopal

'Were not consulted'

"Police were not consulted by the organisers before deciding to discontinue the yatra after walking for about 1 km. The rest of the yatra went on peacefully," the police said

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

CONGRESS leader Rahul Gandhi on Friday cancelled his padyatra after the Bharat Jodo Yatra entered the militancy-hit South Kashmir, alleging complete collapse of security arrangements. The police, however, rejected the charge saying foolproof security would continue to be provided to the yatra.

Rahul started the day's walk from Banihal along with former J&K chief minister and National Conference vice-president Omar Abdullah. But after the yatra entered Qazigund in south Kashmir, he opted out after accepting the recommendation of his security detail though the rest of the participants continued their foot march.

Talking to the media in Anantnag, where he arrived in a car, Rahul said a large crowd had gathered in Qazigund and "we were looking forward to walking. Unfortunately, policemen who were supposed to manage the crowd were nowhere to be seen."

However, the J&K Police said only authorised persons identified by the organisers and the frisked crowd were allowed inside on the route of yatra. "The organisers & managers of BJY did not intimate about large gathering from Banihal joining the yatra, which thronged near the starting point," they added.

Investors lose ₹11 lakh crore as markets fall

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

INDIA's equity markets fell sharply on Friday with both the Sensex and Nifty hitting a three-month low. At close, the Sensex was down 874.16 points or 1.45% at 59,330.90, while Nifty was down 287.70 points or 1.61% at 17,604.30. The dip was largely due to the slump in Adani group stocks, which fell up to 23% during intraday trading, and its spillover impact on banking stocks that have an exposure to the group.

The meltdown left investors poorer by about ₹11 lakh crore since Wednesday. Adani group stocks have come under pressure after US activist investor Hindenburg Research alleged 85% downside in the scrips "purely on fundamental valuations", announced a short position in the group's stocks, and accused Adani of manipulating stock prices. FII stance ahead of the Budget and US Fed meeting also fuelled Friday's fall.

Rain tapping ups attendance of girl students

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

A UNIQUE initiative by an NGO has led to an increase in the attendance of girl students in 15 high schools in various districts. The poor bathroom infrastructure and inadequate water supply had forced the girl students to routinely miss classes for three-four days every month. A study found out that the girls were missing the classes during their month periods due to lack of facilities.

Environment Association of Bangalore (EAB), a non-government organisation, decided to harvest rainwater by setting up facilities in these institutions. The schools in Devanahalli, Chintamani, Chikkaballapur and adjoining areas are now equipped with rainwater harvesting units, which ensure adequate supply of water round the year. In fact, the initiative has also seen more number of girls enrolling in all these institutes. EAB was started by former ISRO chairman Dr K Kasturirangan 25 years ago.

Metro's first overhead U-girder to be launched near Bellandur

Two U-girders placed on every span, work to be completed in one day

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

THE Outer Ring Road Line will register a unique first for Bengaluru Metro as the first full overhead U-girder will be launched on Friday night near its Bellandur Metro station. The girder runs to a length of 28 metres and has been cast in a yard at Gunjur.

In all projects of the Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) so far, the girder has been erected using cranes. "It is for the first time a launcher will be used which will lift the girder above the work site and launch it and this is being done along the Silk Board-KR Puram Line. The lift will be done once for 3 or 4 km," said a top Metro official.

Girder is a crucial part of civil infrastructure as the viaduct, on which the rails are laid, will come up on it.

"Contractor AFCONS has readied the girder under Metro supervision. The U-girder weighs 160 tonnes. It will take us just one day to complete the work as compared to a minimum of seven days that the traditional method of casting segments and then linking them to form a girder used to take," the official said. Two U-girders are placed on every span. "We have completed work on 13 spans so far and all the girders were brought together as segments and made into one whole at the site," the official said. The line will have 330 spans, he added.

Line & Power Block gets nod

The Bengaluru Railway Division has permitted BMRCL to carry out work relating to launch of its open web girder between Carmelaram and Baiyappanahalli Metro stations. The delay in launch of this girder has ensured that work between K R Puram and Baiyapanahalli Metro station could not be completed on the Reach-1 Extension line with the line set to be partially launched in March.

According to a communication issued by the Senior Divisional Operations Manager of Bengaluru Railway Division on Friday, line and power block will be undertaken for 22 hours spread over a week, beginning January 29.

BMRCL will launch a 65m open web girder above the railway tracks here. Railways had initially approved a Line Block between December 8 and 31, but BMRCL was not in a position to launch the girder as preliminary work was not completed.

Stress on basic infra in schools: CM

A girl student enjoys a virtual reality experience during the Science Expo 2023 at Palace Grounds in Bengaluru on Friday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said although money has been allocated for schools and colleges, it is not being spent on providing basic facilities for children.

Speaking at the inauguration of the Science Expo 2023, organised by the Karnataka Residential Educational Institutions Society (KREIS) on Friday, he said that while money has been spent on improving buildings, basic facilities to students should get more attention. "The government spends crores of rupees on residential educational institutions. Money is spent on buildings, compound walls and other amenities. As told in the state cabinet and functions, special attention must be paid to provide basic facilities to children. First, you make the changes to be done and then focus on other things," he said.

He hit out at the previous government for their failures, stating that the allocation of money was done due to the introduction of the contract system of the government. "Despite spending Rs 30 crore on each school, the facilities that should have been available to children are absent. This is the gift that the previous governments have given due to the contract system," he said.

Stating that the expo was a step in the right direction to foster a scientific temper among children, he said, "The science fair is a good experiment to allow kids to express their scientific temper. Earlier, learning science was difficult, which has now changed. To usher in a change in the society, science should be introduced to deprived children. The science fair should be expanded to other places," he said, adding that more efforts to address the shortfalls must be made to ensure that adequate training be given to students to excel in competitive examinations.

Flex muscles to pump groundwater

NAMRATA SINDWANI @Bengaluru

Two students from Davanagere have designed an energy conservation gym with a seesaw and gym equipment, which will use the muscular energy while exercising or playing to pump groundwater. The 16-year-old students -- Pritam M and Nithin K -- from Indira Gandhi Residential School said their machine was energy-efficient as well as would be beneficial for their health.

Borewells which use electricity to pump water, the equipment can be installed in places where children play and adults can exercise as well, and the energy produced would help in pumping water. The students who participated in the Karnataka Science Fair 2023 were perturbed by the daily problems around them, and made efforts to find sustainable solutions.

Students showcased their prototypes for producing electricity by heating dry waste, segregation of waste, protection of crops when there is excessive rain and an automatic waste dumping alert system.

Three students -- Dhanushree HM (14), Yashaswini SA (16) and Meenakshi G (16) -- from Hosur developed a machine which produces electricity from any source of heat, and can be stored in a battery. They said that there is electricity shortage in villages, and if there is such a plant, it can solve the issue of power outage in houses, schools and hostels.

No sale of non-veg items around Aero India venue

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

BRUHAT Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath on Friday announced that sale of non-vegetarian food items during Aero India will be prohibited. Directions were also issued to do mud capping of all landfills around Yelahanka Air Force station to stop movement of birds.

Later, BBMP Joint Commissioner, Yelahanka Zone, issued orders and a public notice stating: "For Aero India 2023, scheduled from February 13-17, 2023, a notice is being issued for public and to properties of meat stalls, hotels and restaurants to close them down from January 30 to February 20, 2023. All those within a 10km radius of the Yelahanka Airforce station are prohibited from serving/selling non-vegetarian dishes."

Fishing will also be banned, and all measures which were taken earlier will continue.

Responding to questions regarding delay in clearing encroachments, Girinath said 139 survey numbers have been identified and the revenue department have been given the list for final survey report. Some of these properties, he said, are along drains and channels, and in some places, requests have been made to divert the channels so that properties are not demolished.

Refusing to name erring officials, Girinath said a particular tahsildar has been sitting on a file which has stopped work in four zones, and the matter has been reported to the revenue department. So far, survey of 131 properties has been taken up. In case of Mahadevapura Zone, orders have been issued to list 130 properties for demolishing. He said that if the February deadline is missed, notices will be issued to engineers concerned and revenue department will also be told to take action.

13,000 BANK STAFFERS LAUNCH STRIKE

Bengaluru: Around 13,000 bank employees from 2,000 branches countrywide of the Bank of Maharashtra launched a strike on Friday, protesting against the failure of the bank to undertake recruitment. The United Forum of Mahabank Unions, which headed the strike, alleged that the management had violated an industry-wide settlement by opting to outsource part-time jobs, and they also stated that around 1,000 clerks and officers should be recruited to address staff shortage as staffers have been asked to report to work while they were off-duty and on public holidays. "Work-life balance is also one of the demands of the employees. Today, employees joined in large numbers in demonstrations, rallies and dharnas across the country. The unions efforts to settle the issues across the table did not yield any results since management was rigid. The unions have decided to observe a strike for two days on February 9 and 10, 2023," they said.

New book by IISc to draw readers into web of Indian spiders

REPRESENTATIONAL IMAGE

ENS @Bengaluru

The Indian Institute of Science (IISc) on Friday released a book which will make it easier to identify Indian spiders.

Renowned scientist Prof Rohini Balakrishnan launched 'On the Web with Spiders: A Handbook with Field Notes', authored by IISc faculty Dr Abhijeet Bayani, a conservation biologist and science writer. The book details Dr Bayani's work for the last 15 years, documenting various species of Indian spiders and how to identify them. "There is no comprehensive guide to identify spiders that I could find, especially when I first become obsessed with them around 2003. This is only the third book on spiders in India. There are around 400 pages of illustrations, photographs and text, with pictures taken by me on the IISc campus," he said.

Dr Milind Watve, Deenanath Mangehskar Hospital and Research Centre Pune, who was an advisor to Dr Bayani said the book was important in promoting citizen science. "Science needs to come out of the academia culture and embrace the mindset of citizen science, and for it to flourish, more books like these need to come out," he said.

KIA SEES 97.5% JUMP IN FLYERS COMPARED TO LAST YEAR, SHOWS REPORT

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

The Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) has recorded a 97.5 per cent increase in passenger traffic from April to December 2022 of the ongoing financial year compared to the same period during the previous fiscal, said Airports Authority of India (AAI).

International travellers have seen a huge surge this fiscal with 27.53 lakh departing from Bengaluru relative to just 7.12 lakh during same period last year.

AAI has released its Air Traffic Report for December 2022 and the traffic figures for three quarters of this financial year.

Festive month of December has seen a whopping surge in air traffic in 2022 at KIA with 3,90,888 flyers, more than double the figure in December 2021.

The stats reveal that 2.27 crore flyers, both domestic and international, flew out of the airport in 2022-2023 while it was just 1.15 crore in 2021-2022.

Only Kalaburagi airport has recorded around 2,000 passengers less this fiscal compared to the previous year while two airports have seen a dip in flyers in December 2022 compared to December 2021. Belagavi saw a huge fall of 9,000 while Kalaburagi was down by 1,000-odd flyers.

Aviation expert Captain Mohan Ranganathan said, "This surge was helped by the lifting of lockdown, which had left the public frustrated who were unable to travel. It would only go down in future because of the overall surge in costs across sectors."

Belagavi airport director Rajesh Kumar Maurya told TNIE that the stoppage of operations by Spicejet to Delhi, Mumbai and Hyderabad from as well as Alliance Air stopping its flight to Pune have heavily impacted its footfalls.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

28TH January: A set of intriguing planetary alignments combine to create an abundance of passion plus a sense of commitment. As a matter of fact, it's an ideal time for falling in - or out of - love. But there's no reason why we should solely be attracted to other people. It might be pets, places, beliefs or principles which take your fancy.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Venus, planet of love, is about to turn your attention to emotional obligations, but you will be able to be just a little irresponsible and leave serious concerns until later, should you wish! What's important is how you go about implementing your deepest desires.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Time seems to be slipping between your fingers. You will very soon begin to imagine that the moment is now past for improvement in your home affairs and family relationships. In point of fact you will have a welcome second stab at the cherry within three weeks.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Happily enough, it is an ideal period for country trips and family visits. Try to spend some time enjoying the peace of the mountains, the ocean - or the desert. It is rare indeed that your stars are so straightforward. A financial crisis should now lie in the distant past.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You may still be feeling a little wobbly, but a shopping spree now looks like the ideal way to lift your spirits. Remember that when it comes to money, your horoscope speaks of quality, not quantity. It's not what you've got but what you do with it that counts!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Mars, Jupiter, Venus and Mercury are still aligned with your sign, each in its own way, and represents a combination that integrates action with knowledge and wisdom. Even apparently impulsive behaviour may therefore seem surprisingly sensible. Don't let anyone tell you otherwise!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You will probably feel like keeping yourself to yourself, but you have sufficient quiet confidence to deal with whatever social obligations are thrown at you. This means that if you do have a busy social or family weekend ahead you should make as much spare time as you can for quiet contemplation.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Your social prospects are looking consistently lively, but romantic Venus is now definitely going to make you think twice about whether a particular liaison is really for you. Don't feel pressurised by friends into doing anything which goes against the grain.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The entire range of personal possibilities is about to be extended, much to your satisfaction. Your professional ambitions will remain on the boil, but you may also be making yourself more time for serious social gatherings, building up contacts for the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Do yourself a favour and don't accept any unnecessary compromises. It is other people who will have to bend, and if they are incapable of accepting the real you, it is a sign that changes must be made. That doesn't mean, by the way, that you should be unfair.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The parts of your chart representing business and possessions are strong, so shopping, spending and all types of investment should come top of your agenda. Joint financial arrangements require special attention and whatever is decided now will yield fairly speedy results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You are increasingly finding yourself as the person who has to say 'no'. You didn't ask to be put in that position and it is not pleasant to think that others might come to regard you as a repressive force but, if they're sensible, they will appreciate your wisdom.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You will gain increasing pleasure from friends who are of a rather serious turn of mind. As far as the physical side of life is concerned, you should make a point of getting as fit as possible as soon as you can: remember what they say about the body being the temple of the soul!

DRI BUSTS INTL RACKET IN WILDLIFE SMUGGLING

Four primates and 14 reptiles, including yellow and green anaconda, recovered

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Directorate of Revenue Intelligence (DRI), Bengaluru, has busted an international wildlife syndicate which trafficked endangered wildlife species though mobile apps, in a massive operation code-named 'Kalki'.

The recovered animals, including extremely rare and threatened species like the yellow and green anaconda, yellow-headed Amazon parrot, Nile monitor, red foot tortoise, iguanas, ball pythons, alligator gar (ancient fish from North America), Yaki monkey, veiled chameleon, racoon dog, white-headed pionus (rare parrots) etc were handed over to Bannerghatta Biological Park, Bengaluru.

"Acting on specific intelligence, DRI officers on January 22 intercepted three passengers, including a lady passenger, who had arrived from Bangkok at Kempegowda International Airport, Bengaluru. Examination of their checked-in baggage resulted in the recovery of non-indigenous 18 animals (four primates and 14 reptiles) with the assistance of Karnataka Forest Department (KFD) officials," stated the DRI in an official release on Friday.

"Ten of these were included in Appendix II of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES) which is a global agreement among governments to regulate or ban international trade in species under threat. The import of wild animals (including their parts and products) as defined in the Wildlife (Protection) Act, 1972, is prohibited and those species which are listed in CITES are subject to the provisions of CITES. The animals attempted to be smuggled by the said passengers were seized under the provisions of the Customs Act, 1962," the Central agency added.

According to the DRI, a "quick follow-up action with the assistance of KFD officials and an officer deputed from the Wildlife Crime Control Bureau (WCCB) Chennai, resulted in the recovery of another 139 animals belonging to 48 species, including 34 CITES listed species from a farmhouse in Bengaluru used as a place of storage of similarly smuggled wildlife."

"The accused neither had any documents evidencing the licit import of the wildlife items nor were there any filings under the Ministry of Environment Forest and Climate Change (Wildlife Division), Voluntary Disclosure Scheme available with them," said the DRI.

The agency however, unearthed "evidence of financial transactions to source non indigenous wildlife through the route of smuggling, buy - sell transactions on WhatsApp and other social media platforms. The same was also established with respect to the wildlife found and seized at the said locations." The DRI has arrested four persons involved in smuggling it into India.

Vet ambulances to ferry humans too? GVK-EMRI says tender process flawed

NAMRATA SINDWANI
@ Bengaluru

THE GVK-EMRI services providing 108 ambulance services in Karnataka since 14 years, has claimed that the tender process for onboarding companies which provide veterinary medical ambulance services, lacks transparency.

The ambulance service for animals was launched under the 'Pashu Sanjeevani' scheme by the central government in 2020. Tenders for outsourcing services were rolled out in May last year.

Sources from GVK-EMRI claimed that after the tender was rolled out in May, another was rolled out in December 2022. They said the criteria for selecting companies had changed, and service providers running regular ambulances (for humans) were also allowed to participate.

Sources said this change in criteria can cause a compromise in the quality of service to be provided by the companies. The whole tender process lacks transparency in terms of communication, they added. The bidders were not provided details of other companies for a fair deal. Transparent communication also helps ensure that the quality of service remains intact, and issues can be highlighted prior to finalisation, they added.

Officials from the Animal Husbandry and Veterinary Services department denied the allegation that fair practices were not followed. "All details regarding the tender process are available on the website and can be accessed by anyone. Earlier, only a single bidder participated, due to which the tender was relaunched in December," they said. The department is expecting to finalise tenders by March.

It was also brought to notice that such ambulance services were a fairly new initiative and with time, companies will be able to build relevant skills in the field. Hence, it was not necessary for other inexperienced companies in this sector to be denied participation.

Hotel to pay consumer ₹10K for billing costlier wine

YATHIRAJU@Bengaluru

A city restaurant, King Fish, had to pay Rs 10,000 compensation to an advocate, for levying a wine bill higher than the brand he had consumed. The restaurant collected Rs 90 in excess by billing for a brand of wine which costs Rs 230 per bottle, instead of the wine he had consumed, which is Rs 140 per bottle.

ST Krishnaiah, the advocate, moved the Consumer Commission with a photograph of the wine bottle with the receipt, saying an excess of Rs 90 was levied. Allowing the complaint partly, the Bangalore Urban District Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission directed the restaurant to refund the excess amount of Rs 90, and pay Rs 10,000 towards compensation and litigation expenses to the complainant.

"The complainant has clearly established the mischief and unfair trade practice by the restaurant. The restaurant supplied one item for a meagre amount and issued a bill for a higher amount, even though it was not supplied to the consumer...," said the Commission, comprising president M Shobha, members Suma Anil Kumar and N Jyothi.

The complainant visited the restaurant on February 13, 2022, and ordered snacks and a Sidus wine bottle costing Rs 140. The waiter gave him the bill, charging him for Tilt Wine-FL which costs Rs 230. The complainant clarified that the MRP of the wine he had was Rs 140 per bottle.

The restaurant contended before the commission that the complainant had ordered Tilt Wine-FL, which cost Rs 230 per bottle, and after consuming the wine, he demanded the bill, which was issued at Rs 230 per bottle, and which was paid by the complainant without protest. After that, he filed a complaint only to harass and extract money, the restaurant claimed.

VARUNA STILL OPEN FOR SIDDU, SAYS SON YATHINDRA

CLP leader's hunt for constituency continues; To pick easy seat as he has to campaign across Karnataka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

EVEN as Opposition Leader Siddaramaiah had said, with an air of finality, that he would contest from the Kolar constituency and preparations are on, Varuna MLA Yathindra Siddaramaiah, son of Siddaramaiah, introduced an element of doubt, saying "Varuna is still open if Siddaramaiah would like to contest from Varuna, considering this is his last election." This statement has again reopened the issue of where Siddaramaiah would contest from in the 2023 polls which are just months away.

Yathindra's statement comes at a time when some organisations have printed handbills, casting aspersions on Siddaramaiah. Yathindra said, "Who has done it? Will it be investigated?" Similar handbills were circulated against a Congress MLA in Chamarajpet over the Idgah land issue.

Congress working president Eshwar Khandre said, "They have an entire dirty tricks department to spread wrong and misleading information against Congress on WhatsApp."

Siddaramaiah's team of supporters have gone to Kolar to identify a suitable house which he would occupy on the outskirts of the town. Also, a team will be stationed in the constituency to work on his campaigning.

But people on the ground said that Siddaramaiah could still contest from Kolar. But considering that he is a mass leader, he would be asked by the party high command to campaign across the state.

Meanwhile, KPCC working president Eshwar Khandre said, "He can contest from anywhere, and wherever he contests the entire region benefits. If he contests from any seat in Mysuru the entire district and adjoining areas will benefit,"

MLC Prakash Rathod said, "There are invitations from many constituencies requesting him to contest. Finally, the decision would be taken by the high command."

'APOLOGISE'

Suspend Ballari DC for evicting hostel students: Siddu to govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CONGRESS Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah on Friday urged the State Government to suspend the Ballari deputy commissioner for allegedly asking college students to vacate the hostel after they protested against poor quality food served in the hostel.

The Deputy Commissioner ordered action against students who protested outside his residence in Ballari on Thursday night, he said.

Siddaramaiah termed the officer's action shocking. The students were thrown out of the hostel for protesting near the DC's house at 10 pm, he said. "The DC should have appreciated the students for bringing the issue to his notice and taken corrective measures. Instead, he issued an order to evict them from the hostel. By now, the government should have suspended the DC for his inhuman act," the former chief minister said

Instead of urging the chief minister to suspend the officer, Sriramulu asked the students to tender an apology. "If the minister cannot ensure that students from his community get good quality food in the hostel, how can he ensure justice for poor people in the state," the Badami MLA questioned.

"The government must immediately suspend the DC, District Social Welfare Officer and all other officials for punishing the students and order a probe," he said.

The district minister who failed to protect students' interests should be dropped from the Cabinet and the government should apologise to the students, he added.

Siddaramaiah also said officials in Ballari and Vijayanagar districts have written to the Bommai-led BJP State Government over not getting adequate grants to provide scholarships and other benefits to students from SC/ST and Minority communities.

Siddu plays milk and sugar tune in Mandya

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

THE Congress turned the tables on the JDS in Vokkaliga heartland Mandya, accusing former chief minister HD Kumaraswamy of failing to keep his promise of increasing milk prices by Rs 5 a litre, and blaming him for the closure of Mysugar factory.

Congress leaders, during the Praja Dhwani Yatra, made some tall promises to the farmers. Opposition leader Siddaramaiah said the government would pay Re 1 more to milk farmers, increasing assistance to Rs 6 a litre, and recalled that he had increased milk prices by Rs 5 a litre.

He alleged that the BJP government was ready to dispose of Mysugar factory, and Industries Minister Murugesh Nirani was keen on taking over the factory. The BJP dropped its plan as he and some others strongly opposed the sale of sugar factories to private players.

He announced that the Congress is committed to taking up modernisation of sugar factories and stepping up crushing of cane from 90,000 tonnes to 3.5 lakh tonnes, besides commissioning ethanol co-generation units to make it a profit-making industry.

Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah and former minister HC Mahadevappa beat the drums after the inauguration of Kannada Janapada Prapancha award function in Mysuru on Friday | UDAYASHANKAR S

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, who had assured Rs 50 crore for the operation of Mysugar factory, had paid Rs 30 crore, and suggested that funds be borrowed to revive the factory, Siddaramaiah said. He allayed doubts over mobilisation of resources to give 200 units of free power, Rs 2000 per month to the woman of the family and 10kg rice to ration card holders. "I will retire from politics if I fail to implement promises made to the people," he said. He also criticised the BJP government for reducing free rice from 7kg to 5kg.

KPCC president D K Shiva Kumar said the Congress took up the Mekedatu padayatra to protect the interests of farmers, but the government registered cases against him and Siddaramaiah for violating Covid norms. He criticised the BJP for taking credit for the Mysuru-Bengaluru highway, which he said was cleared and funded by the UPA government at the behest of Siddaramaiah.

Will present pro-people budget, set up permanent leopard task force: CM

ENS @ Mysuru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday said his government will present a pro-people budget on February 17, like he did last year .

Attending the Krishi Mela in Mysuru, he said a leopard task force, similar to the elephant task force, will be set up for the entire state. "This task force will be permanent. I have held meetings with forest officials and have instructed them to take villagers into confidence and deploy forest staff to monitor the situation," he added. He said there is a need to boost the confidence of residents living on the fringes of forests after increased number of leopard attacks, especially in T Narasipur taluk.

On Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah assuring voters that 'Shaadi Bhagya' would be resumed if Congress is voted to power, Bommai said, "We will not stop them. But Congress will not return to power again."

He also gave hints of a new agriculture policy and changes proposed in farm loans. "There is a need to calculate profit and loss on the mean cost basis and based on the input cost and profit. We need to create such a market for farmers and we are considering how the loan limit can be increased in this budget," he said.

The Yashaswini scheme introduced during former chief minister SM Krishna's government will be brought back in the interest of farmers. Under the the Raitha Shakti programme, Rs 500 crore will be earmarked for machinery and diesel, he added.

Congress making false promises to hide its infighting, says Arun Singh

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hubballi

BJP national general secretary and Karnataka in-charge Arun Singh maintained that the party will win 150 seats in the upcoming Assembly elections in the state due to the performance of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai governments and the infighting in the state Congress.

Addressing media persons here on Friday, Singh said the Congress in Karnataka is a divided house. "Even before the election results, two warring groups headed by KPCC president DK Shivakumar and Opposition leader Siddaramaiah are claiming the CM's post for their leader. How will these leaders ensure the welfare of the people of the state?" he questioned.

Stating that Congress leaders were making false promises like free power just to cover the factionalism in the party, the BJP leader said when the party came to power in 2018, the then AICC president Rahul Gandhi assured farmers of waiving crop loan, but till now his government in Rajasthan has not written off a single Rupee.

Dubbing the Congress as a merchant of false assurances, Singh said the Ashok Gehlot government in Rajasthan had promised Rs 3,500 per month unemployment allowance for youth but has not fulfilled it yet. He added that even the Chhattisgarh government has failed to fulfil various promises made ahead of the 2018 Assembly polls.

Singh, however, refused to reply to any queries raised on the BJP governments' failure to fulfil various assurances it had made during the previous election campaign and said they have done at their level best at the prevailing economic condition. The high ticket spending on creating infrastructure has given a boost to employment opportunities, he added.

POLL ARITHMETIC

Understanding with BJP leaders could mar chances of Cong: Survey

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

MOST pre-poll surveys, conducted by Congress and its leaders, give their party a majority, but an extensive analysis commissioned by KPCC campaign committee chairman MB Patil that also involved a sting operation revealed that a tacit understanding between some Congress and the BJP leaders, which has been prevailing for years, could mar the party's chances in the Assembly polls.

The survey report is likely to be sent to the party high command, which may issue a diktat asking party veterans to stick to their own constituencies and not to meddle with neighbouring segments.

Of the 67 seats in Uttara Kannada, Madikeri, Bidar, Kalaburagi, Shivamogga, Davanagere, Kolar and Tumakuru districts, where the survey was done by one of the three teams, Congress could win over 45 seats if the 'adjustment' politics and internal bickering are done away with.

In Tumakuru, Siddaramaiah's supporter KN Rajanna and former deputy CM Dr G Parameshwara have been publicly waging a war and the former openly supported BJP's GS Basavaraju in the 2019 Lok Sabha polls. This time, the rumour is that Rajanna, an aspirant from Madhugiri, could back Basavaraju's son GB Jyotiganesh in Tumakuru city and a BJP candidate in Koratagere, where Parameshwara will contest.

In Karwar, former minister RV Deshpande's relationship across parties is likely to adversely impact Congress candidates, the survey revealed.

To reach the magic figure of 113, The party is getting ready to induct KR Pete MLA and minister Narayana Gowda, former MLA from Hosakote MTB Nagaraj and Yeshwanthpur MLA ST Somashekar, if independent MLA Sharat Bachegowda joins BJP.

Since KR Puram MLA Byrati Basavaraj is unlikely to return to Congress, the party is trying to get his rival and former BJP MLA Nandish Reddy, sources said.

HOSPITAL sources said 'Santro' Ravi is a diabetic and he overdosed on the diabetes tablets, consuming ten together, which made him unstable.

Doctors said a diabetes patient should consume only a single tablet daily. Consuming ten together caused imbalance in his body. The officials saw him in that unstable condition and rushed him to Lady Curzon & Bowring Hospital on Thursday night. Since a bed was not available, he was taken to Victoria Hospital and admitted in the Intensive Care Unit (ICU).

"He was brought with symptoms of hypoglycemia (low sugar levels), was irritable, with excessive sweating and restless. Currently, he is in a stable condition and under observation. As a part of the criminal procedure, they were also screening him for any other ailments like kidney, heart or lung diseases," the sources said.

Ravi will be in CID custody till January 30. "He will be brought back to CID once doctors permit. He developed complications on Thursday afternoon. Since he is diabetic, with blood pressure- and kidney-related issues, he has to consume medicines as prescribed by the doctors. He also has to take two insulin injections daily. On Thursday afternoon, he popped in the tablets on an empty stomach and was seen in an unstable condition," said sources in CID.

Meanwhile, the city police will soon submit a report to the court pertaining to the false case registered against his wife. City Police Commissioner CH Pratap Reddy told media that the investigators have already recorded the statements of suspended police inspector Praveen pertaining to the false case against the woman.

Praveen, when posted at Cottonpet police station, had filed a false complaint against the woman at the behest of 'Santro' Ravi. The woman then approached senior police officials to look into the issue after 'Santro' Ravi was arrested in Gujarat by a Karnataka police team.

LABOUR CARD FRAUD

Dept says more fake beneficiaries than genuine workers

ASHWINI M SRIPAD
@ Bengaluru

THE Labour Department has started screening documents of beneficiaries to eliminate bogus labour cards after various trade unions and individuals have raised a stink about a large-scale fraud. It is suspected that the number of bogus card holders is more than genuine workers. The department on Wednesday launched a month-long drive across the state on Wednesday.

The labour cards are issued by the Karnataka Building and Other Construction Workers' Welfare Board only to construction workers and those working with allied industries. A 1 per cent cess is levied on all construction projects, including residential, commercial and government, and the money is used only for the welfare of construction workers. Rs 800 crore to Rs 1,000 crore is collected every year.

The state has 40 lakh registered members, who can avail of various benefits, including health, education, housing, pension and others.

"On one side, we are sending money to beneficiaries through direct benefit transfer which is enabled by Aadhaar and labour card. But a large number of people, who are not eligible, are getting the facilities. We have started the drive and teams of officials in each taluk will check labour cards and beneficiaries randomly. It is not practically possible to verify all the 40 lakh beneficiaries," sources said.

Guruprasad MP, Chief Executive Officer and Secretary to the Board, said they have received information that even garment workers, maids and others, who are not from the construction and allied industries have labour cards. "One has to work for at least 90 days in a financial year in the construction industry to be eligible for the card. But random people have given work experience documents, claiming to be construction workers. In a few cases, they have availed ESI and PF facilities," he said.

Labour Minister Shivaram Hebbar told The New Indian Express that he has been informed about a large number of fake beneficiaries and the numbers are said to be higher than estimated. That is the reason the survey has been taken up. If such fake cards are found, action will be taken against such workers and also officials concerned. Bogus card holders are depriving facilities to genuine workers, he added.

Lokesh blasts Jagan, promises youth manifesto

@Vijayawada

TDP general secretary Nara Lokesh launched his 'Yuva Galam' padayatra in Kuppam of Chittoor district amid much fanfare. Lokesh started his Padayatra at 11.03 am and covered 8.5km. The first day of the yatra culminated in a public meeting where Lokesh went hammer and tongs against YS Jagan Mohan Reddy government.

Besides lambasting Jagan Mohan Reddy, Lokesh made several promises with particular reference to the youth. Accusing the Andhra Pradesh CM of betraying the youth for failing to create jobs and chasing away industries from the state, Lokesh announced the TDP will soon roll out a single page manifesto for youth mentioning the details of the jobs from the government, self employment opportunities and jobs in private sectors. He assured that teachers recruitment (District Selection Committee) will be taken up every year.

Stating that Andhra Pradesh stood third in suicides of farmers during the YSRC regime, Lokesh said that quality seeds, fertilisers will be supplied and drip irrigation facility will be arranged after the TDP comes to power.

"Our main agenda is to stop migrations from the state," he said. On the attacks and atrocities on women, Lokesh asked as to what happened to the statements made by the YSRC leaders that Jagan will rush much before the gun, if any crime takes place against a woman.

"The State government did not respond though 900 women were subjected to various kinds of atrocities," he said and asked what happened to the Disha Act. "The Chief Minister, himself made a statement on the floor of the Assembly that action will be initiated in just 21 days against those involved in crimes against women," he aid and questioned as to what happened to the assurance.

Andhra Pradesh was formed with the sacrifices made by the great Potti Sriramulu, he said the self-respect of the Telugus has gone up with the efforts of the Late NT Rama Rao.

Sabarimala to use AI to deal with coin offerings

M S VIDYANANDAN @ T'Puram

THE Travancore Devaswom Board (TDB) is considering employing Artificial Intelligence to help deal with the coins collected as offerings at Sabarimala temple. The board has already received two project proposals on the same. One, from a Chennai-based engineering college, and the other, from a Malayali entrepreneur.

Board president K Ananthagopan told TNIE that the team from the college's AI department had shown a prototype. "We have sought more clarifications on it. We will place an order only after examining all proposals, and with the help of technical experts," Ananthagopan said. The Malayali entrepreneur too has been asked to make a presentation before the board, he added. Both proposals are for machines that would sort the coins by denomination. The counting has to be done separately.

At present, there are three coin-sorting machines at Sabarimala. They separate coins en masse, i.e. by removing other materials like rice, flowers, and folded currencies that are deposited in the offering boxes. It does not offer segregation by coin denomination. This year, the board is yet to finish the counting of coins even a week into the process. The president said it would take another week for the counting to end. "We plan to install the new machines before the next pilgrimage season. It can save a lot of manpower. The segregation and counting of coins is a stressful job. Getting machines to do the job will be very helpful," he added.

An enthusiast takes part in rock climbing at the Hampi Utsav on Friday | EXPRESS

WITH an aim to boost tourism in the state, the state government will soon launch Hampi and Mysuru tourism circuits, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai announced in Hampi on Friday. He was speaking after inaugurating the Hampi Utsav. "The two tourism circuit projects will definitely give a boost to tourism in the state. It will help connect the north and south regions of the state in terms of tourism. If a tourist buys a ticket for Hampi circuit, he can travel up to Bidar, covering all the prominent tourist places. The package will include food, accommodation and other facilities," he said.

The CM said the state government is committed to the development of Hampi. "We need to take permission from Archaeological Survey of India (ASI). In the next week, the foundation laying ceremony will be held for a Rs 120 crore worth project in Anjanadri Hills," Bommai added.

However, some organisers said they were disappointed to see a poor response from the people to the 3-day event. As many as 70,000 chairs were arranged and not even half of them were occupied. Footfalls were low at the exhibition and there were not many people taking the free bus services. Unlike the previous editions where the administration used to provide free bus service from Hosapete, it has now restricted the services from Kaddirampura village which is located about 4 km from Hampi, reducing footfall.

Kalasa Banduri: SC lists Goa plea early

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @ Belagavi

THE Supreme Court on Friday agreed to an early hearing of Goa government's interlocutory application seeking restraint on Karnataka from going ahead with the Kalasa Banduri project after the DPR was approved by the central water commission. The Goa government had moved the apex court on January 14, challenging the approval by CWC to the DPR.

The Goa government had moved the apex court based on the ground that Section 29 of Wildlife (Protection) Act 1972 imposes a embargo on diverting water in the wildlife sanctuaries. "Today, Chief Justice of India has said that the case will be listed early. By today evening, the date for hearing might be updated on the Supreme Court website," sources in the Goa government said.

Sources said the state government had submitted additional documents regarding the DPR and conduct of the Karnataka government. The Union environment ministry had written to the Karnataka government on January 5, 2023, seeking details about mitigation measures for forests and wildlife. Additional chief secretary, forest and ecology, replied saying recommendation might be provided by the chief wildlife warden of the state government.

HC bins chargesheet against Raichur man, orders fresh probe

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court quashed a chargesheet and cognisance taken by the magistrate against one KM Basha from Raichur district, for not obtaining prior sanction to prosecute him for allegedly showing disregard to Indian soldiers by posting the message, wherein a Pakistani soldier was purportedly conversing with a woman, with the words "Har dil ki awaaz, Pakistan zindabad" on social media.

However, the court gave liberty to the investigating agency to comply with the provisions of Section 196 of the CrPC, and investigate the matter afresh as per law. If sufficient material is found during investigation, the agency is at liberty to file a chargesheet and proceed with the case as per law, the court added.

Justice V Srishananda passed the order recently while allowing the petition filed by Basha, a native of KHB Colony in Manvi taluk of Raichur district. Basha allegedly shared the objectionable message on social media on October 6, 2020, but later deleted it. The sub-inspector complained to the station house officer with the report that sharing such a message would amount to insulting the soldiers of the country, resulting in demoralising them and also disturbing the peace and tranquillity of the society.

A chargesheet was filed against Basha for offences under Sections 505(1)(a), 505(1)(b) and 505(2) of IPC and cognizance was taken by the nagistrate on July 12, 2021.

Leopards spark fear among villagers of Kokkare Bellur

ENS @ Mysuru

VILLAGERS of Kokkare Bellur bird sanctuary, the only community reserve in the state, in Maddur taluk in Mandya district are now in fear as leopards were prowling in the region. A video of a leopard hunting a pet dog was recorded in a CCTV camera.

The feline had attacked a pet dog in front of a Ramesh's house on Thursday night. Ramesh and the villagers informed the forest officials who rushed to the spot and found pug marks. They installed a trap cage in the village. "As leopards' movements will be more after evening in search for food, villagers must avoid going out of the house after 6 pm. If there is any emergency, then villagers should go in groups with torch lights," said Gaviappa, a forest official. Villagers urged CESC officials to provide electricity to agriculture pump sets during the day as power during night will force farmers to walk in the dark to their lands to release water, which can expose them to attacks.

CASTE IS CENTRE STAGE AS PARTIES GEAR UP FOR THE BATTLE OF 2024

In a year's time we face a general election and the caste cauldron is simmering once again. The Bihar chief minister was the first to stir the pot by seeking a caste survey in the state. He even got a Supreme Court endorsement for the exercise. Needless to say, caste is the mainstay of Bihar politics. Not to be left behind, the government at the Centre is also going ahead with a socio-economic survey of caste, ostensibly to demarcate the creamy layer among the backward castes but essentially to study the sub-categorisation of the OBCs. Prime Minister Narendra Modi has decided not to let the opposition wrest the initiative in this caste calculus. He set up a commission in 2017 to find ways to ensure the equitable distribution of reservation benefits. The commission has suggested creating four sub-categories of all the OBCs availing reservation benefits. The expectation is the sub-categorisation may generate a new support base to the BJP from among the OBCs and help the ruling party in 2024.

The UPA had started a similar exercise in 2011 but they went out of power before they could complete it. Despite the promise of a New India in subsequent years, we continue to be entrenched deeply in caste identities and that continues to influence our electoral politics. As things stand, the opposition parties have affirmed the centrality of caste in their game plan by demanding a nationwide caste census.

The last census was conducted in 1931. The Mandal Commission, which gave 27% reservation to the backward classes, relied on data from the 1931 census. The OBC leaders from across the country demand a precise count of people belonging to the various backward castes in the same way the number of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes people is counted in the decennial census. The BJP has so far not accepted this particular demand. Nor has it released the report of the Socio-Economic and Caste Census in 2011, citing discrepancies in the data collected.

In Bihar, Chief Minister Nitish Kumar may have sought to put the BJP on the defensive by ordering the caste survey but that has had a cascading effect with backward leaders belonging to the opposition wanting a fresh enumeration of castes and re-fixation of the OBC quota. It is now a race for who emerges as a benefactor of the backward castes not just in the Hindi heartland but in other states as well.

AFTER BRIBERY SCANDAL, JUDICIAL CLEAN-UP MUST

The lay public and the judicial fraternity were shocked when an investigation by the Kerala High Court's vigilance wing found that a leading lawyer had been collecting huge sums of money from his clients as kickbacks after promising favourable judgements. The confidential report, brought out by TNIE early this week, said Saiby Jose Kidangoor, also the president of the influential Kerala High Court Advocates Association, took money from his clients by taking the names of three judges of the high court. The vigilance wing made the report after recording statements from several lawyers. In one instance, a client gave ₹25 lakh to the lawyer to be given as a bribe to a judge. "Prima facie, there is sufficient material to prove the allegations against the lawyer," the report said.

While the report is damning enough, what's disturbing is despite the serious nature of the revelations, there seems to be no urgency on the part of the police and the judicial establishment to investigate the matter and bring the culprits to book.

Consider this: Saiby continues to be the Kerala High Court Advocates Association president. Sure, the vigilance wing probed the allegations after a direction from the High Court registrar. Still, the Bar Council is yet to make any visible move against the lawyer. The police, after the initial reluctance, recorded Saiby's statement. The lawyer denied the allegations, saying he collected the money as his fees. The Kochi police commissioner is expected to submit his findings to the Kerala DGP, who will decide whether a first information report (FIR) needs to be filed.

Even a hint of corruption in the judiciary cannot be tolerated. What has been revealed here is large-scale corruption that could erode the very credibility of the judiciary. There must be a thorough investigation, and those found guilty must be subjected to exemplary punishment. At a time when the people are losing faith in the legislature and executive, their hopes rest on the country's judiciary, the third pillar of democracy. These revelations have cast a shadow on their hopes. It's essential to restore that faith. Brushing the issue under the carpet will irreparably damage the system. Judges and the lawyer fraternity must take the lead in cleansing the system, and police must do their job without hesitation.

QUICK TAKE

BIZARRE MEDICAL PRACTICE

The Supreme Court recently struck down a nearly two-decades-old Assam law to register and regulate holders of a regional medical diploma. The verdict said the state is incompetent to pass a law that is the Centre's preserve. Strangely, the diploma holders were allowed to practice only in rural areas, not in urban areas, treat certain diseases and prescribe limited medications. Such restrictions are not workable in practice. They are also highly discriminatory. Access to medical services must be equitable and universal. The services cannot be curtailed for any reason, and only legally qualified and professional medical staff must provide them.

The economy is resilient amid a bleak global growth outlook, but faces risks from geopolitical spillovers

INVESTMENT AND CONSUMPTION NEED SPECIAL ATTENTION

CHANDRAJIT BANERJEE

Director General, Confederation of Indian Industry

SOURAV ROY

The Union Budget 2023–24 is going to be presented in times of predictable unpredictability and certain uncertainty, which have invariably become the "new normal". We are facing a protracted war in Ukraine, resurgence of Covid-19, economic slowdown with rising inflation and tight government budgets, extreme weather events and rapid social and technological change. Economically, India today is more integrated with the world than ever before. Shocks emanating outside its political frontiers have considerable impact on it. While the economy has shown resilience and has been a bright spot amidst a bleak global growth outlook, it continues to face risks from geopolitical spillovers and geoeconomic flux. Private investment recovery is delayed as investors are waiting for external contingencies to stabilise and domestic demand to pick up. Exporters are staring at subdued demand with the global economic slowdown. Households are yet to fully emerge from the ravages of Covid-19—and with rising inflation—are facing shrinking balance sheets.

Hence, at this critical juncture of India's development journey, the finance minister is faced with the "trilemma" of providing impetus to investment and growth, while containing inflation and keeping the fiscal deficit in check. Equally important will be to address the sustainability and technology imperatives and retain the focus on the prime minister's call for 'Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas' (Together, for everyone's growth, with everyone's trust).

The first suggestion for the forthcoming budget is to support demand, both investment and consumption demand. With regards to investment demand, despite the limited fiscal space, government support for capex-led growth should continue, especially in infrastructure. The budget should increase allocation to capital expenditure by 35% like last year, taking the total public capex to about ₹10 lakh crore. Public investment in infrastructure would have a high spillover impact on the economy and would crowd-in private investment.

Apart from investment demand, reviving consumer demand is equally important for supporting growth. As we witness times of high inflation and slowing disposable incomes, it is important that income tax slabs and rates for individuals be rationalised. A reduced effective tax rate at the lower end will put more money in the hands of consumers and increase consumption, creating room for investments and jobs.

Second, while we focus on rejuvenating consumption and investment demand, care must be taken to maintain fiscal prudence. The Centre should adhere to the fiscal deficit target of 6.4% of GDP for this fiscal and continue the process of gradual reduction in the deficit in the next fiscal which should culminate in the deficit moving towards the goalpost of 4.5% by FY26.

The third suggestion is to revive growth by promoting and further boosting world-class manufacturing in India. It requires a focus on not only improving the Ease of Doing Business, but also on reducing the Cost of Doing Business. Much progress has been made on Ease of Doing Business, but there is more work to be done. It could be significantly improved through greater digitisation of regulatory and compliance frameworks, faster and time-bound clearances, contract enforcement, and a genuine single-window system encompassing Central and state clearances. Further, all business-related laws including Partnership Act, IBC, GST Act, etc., should be decriminalized. No arrests or detention should take place in civil cases unless criminalisation in business has been proved beyond doubt.

We are witnessing a new paradigm of co-existence of cooperative and competitive federalism in India. Given the success of the GST Council, the Centre could look at forming similar councils for reforms in areas such as land, labour, power, and agriculture, where consensus building is difficult and adds to the Cost of Doing Business.

The budget should complement these through tax reforms. Apart from the rationalisation of income tax rates, extension of the sunset date of 15% concessional tax rate for new manufacturing units by a year to March 2025 will be helpful. Further, the indirect tax regime should see a shift towards a three-tier structure with the exception of a few products presently in the higher slabs. Duties on imports of inputs or raw materials should be in the lowest or nil slab, intermediates in the lower slab (2.5–5%) and final products in the standard slab.

Fourth, as India looks to harness its demographic dividend, focus on employment generation will be critical. This can be facilitated by promoting more labour-intensive industries such as furniture, leather, toys, etc., through the PLI scheme; encouraging labour-intensive services such as tourism, logistics and hospitality through an Employment Linked Incentive (ELI) scheme, pushing growth in infrastructure and construction sectors; promoting schemes such as ODOP at the district level, raising outlays on MNREGA, etc.

The fifth area is sustainability. India is one of the very few countries globally to have walked the talk on climate commitments and has set an ambitious goal of achieving Net Zero by 2070. To move forward on this commitment, the budget could announce a specialised Development Finance Institution (DFI) to fund the energy transition and other climate change mitigation and adaptation measures. Announcing a PLI for electrolysers and including green ammonia/green hydrogen in the harmonised list of infrastructure sub-sectors will be in line with the Centre's goal to promote India as a hub for green hydrogen.

Finally, as economic activity increasingly becomes innovation and technology-driven, R&D will be a key enabler for growth and competitiveness. Increasing investment in R&D from the present level of 0.7% to 2.5% by 2030 and 4% by 2047 is most important. The budget could set up a joint Industry-Government Science and Technology Advisory Council to deliberate on the key enablers for achieving this goal.

Despite the global headwinds, the economy has shown resilience and going forward, can be an engine of global growth. The upcoming budget presents the perfect opportunity to transform India.

CONDITIONING CONTENT IN A DEMOCRACY

KAJAL BASU

Veteran journalist

About two weeks ago, on January 17, 2023, the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology proposed changes to the Information Technology Rules 2021. When—not if—they come to pass, these alterations will enforce beady-eyed and strict government oversight of online content. Telecom service providers and social media platforms would be mandated to delete any and all content branded "fake" by the Union government's media arm, the Press Information Bureau, and other government bodies "authorised" to fact-check online content. This would be censorship on a level unprecedented in the putatively democratic world.

This proposed imposition of government censorship had been preceded by a bit of testing the waters—a gag order on the Joshimath land-subsidence catastrophe on sharing information with the media. Within 24 hours of this proscription, Joshimath went dark, and it remains so. There is not a smidgen of information anywhere about what transpires in this environmentally precarious region of Uttarakhand, one of the major gateways of Hindu pilgrimages in sub-Himalayan India.

Before imposing the changes, the chance for a full-on test of existent IT rules appeared a few days later. On January 20, 2023, the Union Ministry of Information and Broadcasting invoked emergency powers already embedded in the Information Technology Rules, 2021, to direct YouTube and Twitter to block videos of part 1 of the BBC documentary, India: The Modi Question—which the Union Ministry of External Affairs called a "propaganda piece designed to push a particularly discredited narrative"—as well as more than 50 tweets that hyperlinked to the videos.

Significantly, the ban was not extended to Facebook—the Meta ecosystem—and links to the videos remain in a dozen different hosts. Part 1 of the docuseries has been downloaded, presumably, by hundreds of thousands (if not millions) of Indians living in India and not using VPNs to circumvent blocked information pipelines. Part 2 has not been proscribed at all and is available for viewing worldwide. This accessibility is, not surprisingly, the reason why the second episode—far more chilling and contemporary than the first—has not evoked a similarly volatile response from the general public. Maybe the old democratic saw still works: that freedom of expression keeps a society palliated in times of crisis.

The government's dichotomous response to the two episodes of the docuseries is perplexing. It is contradictory how the government handles those who insist on watching them even after being threatened with establishmentarian displeasure. After the first episode, the police detained a small handful of the louder students; after the second, there wasn't the faintest resemblance of a frisson.

What was notable about the response to the first episode was not the government's clampdown on it employing draconian laws but the widespread defiance of those laws. Viewings of part 1 exploded in universities across India, sometimes on portable screens and often on digital devices. When the administration of Jawaharlal Nehru University in New Delhi cut off electricity to prevent the screening of the documentary, students instantly passed around a QR code of the link to where the documentary had been hosted and migrated to viewing it on laptops and smartphones.

> The Opposition has boosted its already simmering contumacy. Political youth wings in Kerala, Bengal, and Delhi screened the banned first episode for the public

The Opposition has boosted its already simmering contumacy. Political youth wings in Kerala, Bengal, and Delhi screened the banned first episode for the public. The Centre has not responded yet, to this bucking of legality, except with a surprisingly muted show of police force.

Why this public show of indecision by the Government of India, which has never before suffered from underconfidence or, even less, from reflex action upon perceived antagonism? Has its chairing of the G20—and the vision of a democracy hard at work that it needs to hard-sell to the Global North—moderated its autogenetic imperiousness? Now that it is gavel-holding in the premier international economic forum, does it understand that much of the G20 would like nothing better than to subdue its atmanirbhar ultranationalism? Narendra Modi has been good for the ruling duopoly, but, except for arms, deshbhakti has not exactly been good for business from the Global North. India has kept its doors open for foreign investment but tightly shut for foreign business.

How does the Global North make its louring, democratic, free-market presence felt over the Modi dispensation? Think, first, the BBC's The Modi Question parts 1 & 2. Is the docuseries supposed to keep India on human rights straight and narrow during its yearlong chair of the G20? It's possible. Is it meant to keep the Modi dispensation moderated in the run-up to the general election and thus reduce the probability of a repeat majority government? Maybe. In the absence of a smoking gun, we can but wonder. Think, second, Hindenburg Research's explosive investigation into one of Modi's closest hypercorporates, the Adani Group. How the world's 3rd Richest Man is Pulling the Largest Con in Corporate History led to the Adani Group's seven listed companies tanking a collective 20% in the stock market—within 36 hours of the éxposé.

In every sense, two of the Modi dispensation's frontiers of poise and self-possession (despite deep liberal doubts about both)—democratism and economics—have been seriously put to the question by organisations embedded in the Global North's systèmes de démocratie simultaneously.

But if one thing seems clear, it is this: with 16 months to go for the 2024 general election, the GoI's hardheadedness about its uncommitted take on freedom of expression will be sorely tested, both from within and without. Students—and some Opposition parties—have taken the intractable, unappeasable warpath. And they are employing precisely those communication instruments that the government seeks control over—smartphones, laptops—indeed, the broad whitewater of spectrum and bandwidth. To its indubitable chagrin, the government might be constrained from wielding its iron fist—because the world is now watching.

Telangana's loss

This year as well, the Telangana government did not celebrate R-Day. But Governor Tamilisai Soundararajan showed how it must be done by going ahead with the programmes at Raj Bhavan. 30% Joshimath can collapse, warn scientists

Disaster mgmt officials say a huge amount of soil washed away, cracks have developed inside ground at 460 places

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

THE ancient town of Joshimath located near the China border is getting "hollowed out" as land sinking is taking the shape of a much bigger crisis. Scientists have found that "a large part of Joshimath has become hollow." A huge amount of soil has been washed away and 40-50-metre-deep cracks have developed inside the ground at about 460 places."

Disaster management officials believe that in such a situation, at least 30% of the area affected by landslides can collapse anytime. "There is no alternative except immediately evacuate the nearly 4,000 affected people settled in the area," said an official, adding that the buildings with cracks will have to be demolished soon.

On the other hand, Joshimath residents took out a huge public awareness rally on Friday against the National Thermal Power Corporation (NTPC) project. Hundreds of affected people, including traders, took to the streets and raised slogans 'NTPC go back.' The road leading to the NTPC township from TCP Bazar was guarded by the police. The area of the NTPC project office has been converted into a cantonment.

A National Institute of Hydrology team has found in its findings that "land submergence in Joshimath gradually increased on the night of January 2. Meanwhile, muddy water started seeping from the hilly area behind the JP Company's residential area, which still remains a puzzle for officials and scientists."

The report made available on Friday says: "In the last 23 days, over 2 crore litres of water has leaked into the ground. This amount of water is equivalent to a large lake."

The most shocking report is from the National Geophysical Research Institute, Hyderabad, submitted to the nodal agency, Central Building Research Institute. It says, "Joshimath's sloping mountain is built on a pile of debris, the soil that was covered with stones has been washed away in the water. The lower part of the stones has become hollow. Therefore, the ability to bear loads is gradually disappearing."

The report has been submitted to the National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA). Sources said the NDMA made a presentation before the home ministry on Wednesday. Scientists believe that after the final report of the probe, the picture of Joshimath could be more "frightening."

Sources said the survey found that there are 2,500 houses in the land submergence area, in which 4,000 people are affected. At the same time, 30% of the buildings with cracks have been recommended to be demolished immediately. It has also been suggested to explore the possibility of retrofitting the rest of the buildings.

"The government's attention is focused on the opinion of scientists as well as the interests of the affected. A detailed blueprint is being prepared for this," said the state minister in charge of Joshimath, Dr Dhan Singh Rawat. "The government is fully sensitive to setting up new cities and compensation payouts for the displaced. They will be rehabilitated as per the opinion of the affected people," he said.

Joshimath, also known as Jyotirmath, is a city and a municipal board in Chamoli district. Located at a height of 6,150 feet, it is a gateway to several climbing expeditions.

British MPs talk about 'genocide' of Kashmiri Pandits

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

THE All Party Parliamentary Group for British Hindus, the Kashmiri Pandit diaspora and allies held an event to commemorate "33 years of Kashmiri Pandits genocide" on Wednesday. The event took place at the Houses of Parliament, and was hosted by Bob Blackman, chair, All Party Parliamentary, APPG group for British Hindus.

An Early Day Motion (EDM) was also tabled to commemorate "Genocide of Kashmiri Pandits", signed by cross-party MPs, reminding them that justice was yet to be done.

Blackman reiterated his support for India and the Kashmiri Hindu community and reminded that it was Pakistan's invasion of Kashmir that led to erstwhile Maharaja Hari Singh acceding to India.

"Exodus of Kashmiri Pandits from the Valley was ethnic cleansing,'' Blackman said, adding that he removal of Article 370 was a good decision.

"I visited Kashmir in 2016 and couldn't go after that. The exodus happened as the Hindus who were in a minority were risking their lives by being there. Muslims in the Valley may have been around for hundreds of years, but Hindus lived before them for thousands of years," he added.

Speaking about the removal of Article 370, he said, "Would it not have been outrageous if Britain only gave jobs to Christians? In the same way it's good that the removal of Article 370 is giving a level playing field."

He added that efforts must be made to dispel widespread ignorance about the truth of the matter within the UK and the world. He also spoke about the recent BBC documentary against Prime Minister Narendra Modi, describing it as a "hatchet job".

Speaking at the event, MP Jonathan Lord, Woking, said that just as we must never forget about the Holocaust, we must not forget this.

Judiciary comprises largely upper caste, heterosexual men, says Kirpal

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

SENIOR advocate Saurabh Kirpal, whose name was recommended for elevation as Delhi HC judge but it has met with objections from the Centre due to his sexual preference, has opined that judiciary is composed largely of "upper caste, heterosexual men who also have certain biases".

"To say that because you have a particular ideology, you are therefore biased is a reason to stop appointing judges altogether. Because every judge would have some kind of viewpoint owing to where they came from," he said.

Speaking at the Kolkata Literature Festival on the topic 'Fifteen judgements: Cases that shaped India's financial landscape', earlier in the week Kirpal said: "But you need judges with biases. You currently have upper caste, heterosexual men on the bench, all of them have a certain kind of bias. Now, that is not the audience I am seeing in front of me, that is not the country I live in! So must not the bench reflect a part of what society itself is? That what you call biases, I would rephrase as alternative life experiences."

Referring to the two aspects in decision making of a judge he said: "There are two aspects to a judge's decision making. One is the fact that it is a fallacy to assume that a judge can be completely divorced from their upbringing, the social milieu, their perceptions and ideas, etc. It shapes who they are and when they interpret any ambiguous word in the Constitution, then inevitably, what that particular word means, means differently to a person who comes from a rich upper caste family as opposed to a Dalit, as opposed to a woman. When we say that the Constitution promises life and liberty – what does life and liberty mean? They change depending upon how your own life situation has been. So for some, it may be the rigid bare minimum life or the ability to breathe and live. But for some other person, life means so much more than that. It means a life full of dignity."

> You currently have upper caste, heterosexual men on the bench, all of them have a certain kind of bias. Now, that is not the audience I am seeing in front of me, that is not the country I live in!
> Saurabh Kirpal, Senior advocate

On January 18, the Supreme Court collegiums, headed by Chief Justice of India DY Chandrachud, decided to take a historic step by making public by way of collegium resolutions not only the objections that have been raised by the Centre for elevation of three advocates — Saurabh Kirpal, Somasekhar Sundareshan and R John Sathyan — as high court judges but also the excerpts of letters of Research & Analysis Wing, law ministry, and Intelligence Bureau reports.

In the case of Kirpal's elevation, the objections were his sexual orientation and his "foreign national partner".

12 cheetahs arriving from South Africa next month

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE second batch of 12 cheetahs from South Africa is likely to reach India in February. The two countries have signed an agreement for relocation of the animals, the ministry of environment, forest and climate change said on Friday.

As per the officials, the plan is to translocate at least 12 big cats annually for the next 8-10 years. "An encouraging development for Project Cheetah. A matter of pride for nature lovers. Restoring cheetahs is a priority for the govt led by PM Shri @narendramodi ji with far-reaching conservation consequences. India looks forward to welcoming the cheetahs from South Africa," Forest Minister Bhupender Yadav tweeted.

The cats will join eight cheetahs at Kuno National Park in Madhya Pradesh, brought in from Namibia last year.

"The MoU facilitates cooperation to establish a viable cheetah population in India; promotes conservation and ensures that expertise is shared, and capacity built, to promote cheetah conservation," said the ministry.

Rlys to roll out mini Vande Bharat trains with 8 coaches for short trips

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

AFTER the successful launch of semi-high-speed Vande Bharat train, the Ministry of Railways is planning to roll out its mini version with just eight cars on pilot basis.

The normal Vande Bharat trains have 16 coaches.

Vande Bharat trains with eight cars will be akin to a metro train which runs with six or eight cars.

Unlike metro trains, eight-car Vande Bharat trains will cover different cities situated within a distance of 200-350 km by running at schedule timings in day or night.

If the plan goes well, the railways will be rolling out the first of the eight-car new Vande Bharat train on a route that touches commercial cities by April-May this year.

The Ministry of Railways has directed the General Managers (GMs) of Chennai-based Integral Coach Factory (ICF) and Lucknow-based Research Design and Standard Organisation (RDSO) to roll out the rakes of eight-car Vande Bharat trains at the earliest.

"The shorter version of Vande Bharat train is basically being experimented by the railways to provide safer and swift journey of short distance in various parts of the country. This service is likely to be introduced between two major cities within a distance of less than 300 to 500 km", a senior ministry official told TNIE.

According to sources in railways, the routes are being finalised for the new type of Vande Bharat train. "The routes of shorter distance which witness fewer footfalls of daily passengers are being discussed", said an official. "It has been decided to manufacture Vande Bharat rakes of eight cars as proof of concept (POC) which can be further upgraded to 12-, 16- or 24-carformation", the order to the GM said.

A senior railway official said the decision to run Vande Bharat trains with a shorter car composition will prove a boon to the passengers, especially traders, students and working class people who want to visit different big cities.

Spike in Afghan drug trade raises concern, govt plans tighter vigil

AMIT MUKHERJEE @ New Delhi

WITH Afghanistan re-emerging as the global narcotic hub, with cartels now manufacturing value-added narcotics and psychotropic products like meth, besides exporting huge amounts of opium derivatives, the home ministry has asked national drug monitors to review the situation every 30 days amid proof of close nexus between drug and terror outfits operating in India.

Besides being one of the largest suppliers of opium-based derivatives in the world, the drug cartel of Afghanistan is now focusing on production of value-added products like meth-amphetamine that promise big margins to peddlers. The trend has set bells ringing among the agencies here, as the tri-junction comprising India, Sri Lanka and Maldives is being used to push the banned stuff into Africa, Southeast Asia and Australia, sources in the Narcotics Control Bureau said.

The matter has become a major concern for anti-drug agencies in India following investigations into a major drug haul done by the special cell of Delhi Police in 2022. It led to seizure of 312.5 kg of methamphetamine and 10 kg of heroin worth over ₹1,200 crore in the international market from two Afghan nationals living in Delhi. "It was the largest amphetamine seizure ever," said a source in the NCB, adding that "investigations into the initial seizure led to the recovery of over 600 bags of the substance from a location in Lucknow."

The threat is corroborated by a recent report of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) – Opium cultivation in Afghanistan, which states that, "The challenges faced by the Afghan population impede the ability to lessen its dependence on income generated from opium, which remains its main export product with well-established markets and trafficking networks. The current contraction of licit economic opportunities makes households even more vulnerable to engaging in illicit activities such as opium and cannabis cultivation, and heroin and methamphetamine manufacture and trafficking."

As per the UNODC report, opium cultivation in Afghanistan increased by 32% over the previous year to 233,000 hectares – making the 2022 crop the third largest area under opium cultivation since monitoring began. The report adds that opium prices have soared following the announcement of the cultivation ban in April 2022. Income of farmers from sales tripled from $425 million in 2021 to $.4 billion in 2022.

In the wake of the development, all state police heads have been asked to coordinate with the NIA and NCB to crack the larger network.

New scheme to fix 'Monument Mitra' lapses

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

IN the absence of desired results from the 'Monument Mitra' (Adopt a Heritage) scheme of the tourism ministry, the ministry of culture is now ready with its own version the initiative for better maintenance of centrally-protected heritage properties, creation of basic amenities and world-class additions like the recently launched Sound and Light Show at Delhi's Red Fort.

According to the officials, preparations for the launch of the scheme are in the final stages, for which the ministry will be holding a meeting on January 31with corporate entities and institutions interested in adopting a monument. It aims to introduce Sound and Light Show along with projection mapping at 500 sites, including Hampi, Purana Qila, Ajanta, Ellora, Mandu, Kangra Fort and Golconda Fort.

One of the provisions in the revamped version of the scheme is that a heritage site or part of the building under the jurisdiction of the Archaeological Survey of India may be handed over to two or multiple bidders. The scheme is likely to be launched by February 15, the officials said. "This revised scheme will be led by the culture ministry. The previous scheme of the tourism ministry didn't do justice fully. Earlier guidelines were silent on what can or can't be done at monuments, leading to confusion; whether monument mitras (friends of monument) could carry out conservation or are they only for maintenance of the garden? All those questions have been clarified in the revamped scheme," said a senior official privy to the matter.

The website for the scheme will have details of 1,000 sites being offered, including parts and features such as a doorway, pathway or dome, which can separately be taken for different purposes. The ministry said big firms such as the Tata group, Infosys, Jindal and Yatra have shown interest.

"One can only opt for a Sound and Light Show, projection mapping, interpretation centre or only the upkeep. A total of 1,000 monuments will be on offer but we want to sign agreements for 500 sites before August 15," said the official.

The monument mitra scheme, launched in September 2017, was envisioned to provide an enhanced tourism experience and ensure quality of amenities at heritage sites. The government signed MoUs with private entities for over 20 sites, such as Aguada Fort (Goa), Rani-ki-Vav (Gujarat), Gandikota Fort (Andhra Pradesh) and Ajanta Caves (Maharashtra).

BJP ready to go solo in Tripura poll

Party's central election committee meets to finalise candidates for 60-member House

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

PM Narendra Modi, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh and Home Minister Amit Shah during the BJP's Central Election Committee meeting in New Delhi on Friday | PTI

AFTER the announcement by Tipra Motha that it will not ally with any political party, it is almost certain that BJP will go alone in the upcoming Tripura assembly elections.

TIPRA Motha chief Pradyot Kishore Manikya Debbarma on Friday said the party will go alone in Tripura – the day BJP's Central Election Committee met here with Prime Minister Narendra Modi in attendance.

BJP national president J P Nadda, principal strategist Amit Shah, incumbent Tripura Chief Minister Manik Saha were also present to finalise the candidates for the elections.

After the meeting, sources in BJP said that the party leaders will have wide discussions before the finalising the candidates. "The final list of candidates will be announced by Saturday as the Central Election Committee has approved it," said a source.

The saffron party will release the list of candidates for all seats in one go for the 60-member Tripura assembly, which is going to polls on February 16. The counting of votes will take place on March 2.

TIPRA Motha chief said his party will fight the election to defeat the party or the people opposed to the demand of 'Greater Tipraland'. "Until the Government of India gives any written document for a Constitutional solution to our demand; we will not go for any coalition... Jitega toh jitega harega toh harega but one last fight to karke rahega! (Whether we win or lose, we will put up one last fight)," he said in a video clip uploaded on Facebook.

"What is the problem if our party (BJP) goes alone in the Tripura elections? We have delivered on developmental fronts and will retain the power comfortably whether any party comes or not for alliance with us," a senior BJP leader who is in the know of party's strategy for Tripura said.

Tripura polls will be a litmus test for BJP as the Opposition is gearing up by forming a formidable alliance.

"Issues like the 'Greater Tipraland' and others are likely to dominate in this election on which the ruling BJP will have to win the trust of people this time. If the BJP goes alone this time as no such formidable alliance seems in sight, it will have to win the trust of people on local issues", said a senior BJP leader.

The ticket distribution will now be done keeping in mind the emerging political clout of the CPI (M) and the Congress, and growing people's sentiment with the demand of 'Greater Tipraland'.

Many of keen political observers of Tripura elections also feel that the statehood demand will affect results in 20 assembly seats which are dominated by tribal voters.

TIPRA Motha to go it alone, says Pradyot

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

THE tribe-based TIPRA Motha will go it alone in the February 16 Tripura elections, its chief Pradyot Manikya Debbarma announced on Friday.

"No alliance – my heart does not agree and so I have made my decision that I cannot accept New Delhi's offer! I can't betray our cause and our people!" Debbarma tweeted.

After being "invited" by "central government", a delegation of TIPRA Motha, led by the royal scion Debbarma, went to New Delhi and held a meeting with Union home minister Amit Shah and officials of his ministry. However, the Centre refused to give a written assurance on the separate "Greater Tipraland" state demand.

TIPRA Motha made it clear that it would forge an alliance with any party, only if there is a written commitment on the demand. The envisaged Greater Tipraland includes the areas under the Tripura Tribal Areas Autonomous District Council and 36 adjoining villages.

Capt likely to replace Koshyari as Maha Guv after Budget session

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

FORMER Punjab Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh could be the next Governor of Maharashtra replacing Bhagat Singh Koshyari.

Sources close to the ex-Patiala royalty said talks are going on, though nothing concrete has emerged. "It may happen soon or anytime after the Budget session of Parliament. If not Maharashtra, then he might become the governor of West Bengal or Tamil Nadu, as there their might be a reshuffle," said an insider.

Earlier too there were rumours about Amarinder being appointed Lieutenant Governor of Jammu and Kashmir or the Vice President. Singh who has served as Punjab Chief Minister for almost two terms – first from 2002 to 2007 and then from 2017 till he was unceremoniously removed from the post just months before the Punjab Assembly elections early last year. He resigned from the Congress in October 2021 and later formed his own political party, the Punjab Lok Congress which he later merged with the BJP when he joined the saffron party in September last year.

Meanwhile, Koshyari who took over as the Maharashtra governor in September 2019, has expressed his desire to step down. He reportedly told the PM as much during the latter's visit to Mumbai recently.

Koshyari had also conveyed to the PM that he should be discharged of all his responsibilities as he wants to spend the remainder of his life in "reading, writing, and such activities."

The Maharashtra governor, who once also served as chief minister of Uttarakhand, had faced major controversies and calls by the Opposition parties in Maharashtra to resign, has drawn the flak of the opposition Maha Vikas Aghadi – which has often demanded his resignation and has raised the criticism for disrespecting the state's icons and for distorting history.

Ramgarh bypoll to define BJP-AJSU ties

Though the date for the Ramgarh by-election is declared, BJP and AJSU have not reached a consensus on seat-sharing. According to party insiders, being its traditional seat, AJSU wants to field its candidate in Ramgarh, while the BJP is wary of this decision. Observers perceive that if BJP and AJSU fielded a joint candidate in Ramgarh, they will contest 2024 Assembly polls together, but if they fail to reach any consensus now, there are very bleak chances of reaching any consensus in 2024. Notably, BJP-AJSU alliance had contested 2019 Lok Sabha polls together, but they parted their ways after the Assembly polls.

Women participation rises in MGNREGS

Proportion of women workers participating in the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MGNREGS) has increased in Jharkhand. According to officials, this is helping secure economic independence of women, as most women who benefit under this scheme are single, destitute or abandoned. During 2019-20 the percentage of women workers in MGNREGS was 41.31, which increased to 42.56 per cent in 2020-2021, 45.58 per cent in 2021-22, and currently stands at 47.1 per cent in 2022-23. Notably, this increase was witnessed despite the spate of lockdowns during the pandemic.

Cash-strapped? Bengal govt to sell lands without condition to raise funds

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

IN a bid to maximise revenue generation, the Bengal government has decided to allow its departments to sell land parcels under their possession, without any condition. The blanket permission to sell lands under their possession is said to be unprecedented because traditionally, the government had directly leased out government land to private companies or individuals since Independence.

In certain cases, the government did sell land but that was limited to a handful plots with a particular purpose. "This will be the first time that the state government will go for monetisation of land without any particular purpose or condition. Previously, in certain cases the government sold land but that was limited to a handful of plots with particular purpose," said an official of the land and revenue department.

A source at Nabanna said that the state secretariat, the Kolkata Metropolitan Development Authority has already started the process of selling lands at Golf Green and Kasba after the instruction was given. "Now if our department is allowed, more plots will be sold out," said an official.

However, a section of bureaucrats found leasing land for commercial purposes was always a better option as compared to selling the lands as the government can have control over the commercial projects.

"If the projects are not completed on time or changed midway, the government can take back the land. With the new decision, the state government will have no control on the projects," said a senior official of the state government.

Another section of officials raised questions on the merit of the decision.

An official said there are two sources from which the government can get lands. "One of them is additional lands above the ceiling, which gets vested with the government for distribution among the landless. The other way is through acquisition for a particular purpose like constructing roads and bridges," he said.

MORBI

Charge sheet filed, Oreva MD named

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

GUJARAT police named Jaysukh Patel of Ajanta Manufacturing Private Limited (AMPL), an Oreva Group company, as the prime accused in the Morbi bridge collapse incident in which 135 lives were lost. Patel, whose name was missing in the initial FIR, has been on the run since the accident on October 30 last year.

Deputy Superintendent of Police P S Zala, who is the investigating officer in the case, on Friday filed the charge sheet running into more than 1,200 pages in the court of Morbi's chief judicial magistrate MJ Khan. Advocate Dilip Agechaniya, who appeared on behalf of the family of one of the deceased, told the media, "Oreva Group's Jaysukh Patel, who was not named in the FIR initially by police, has been shown as the tenth accused in the charge sheet filed before the magistrate on Friday."

A release by Morbi Police also said that an arrest warrant Under CRPC-70 by a magistrate's court is out against Oreva Group MD Jaysukh Patel.

Kushwaha says won't quit even if Nitish asks him

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

THE verbal duel is unabated between Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar and his party's parliamentary board chairman Upendra Kushwaha. The JD-U leaders sharpened their attacks on Friday. At a hurriedly called press conference, Kushwaha made his intentions clear that he was not going to leave the JD-U even if Nitish or any other senior party leader asked him to do so. At the same time, he levelled serious allegations against Nitish.

The CM in the meantime invited Kushwaha for discussions for redressing his grievances. He said JD-U had nothing to do with Kushwaha's outbursts against him and other party leaders. He, however, refuted Kushwaha's claim that the JD-U was getting weak. "It hardly matters for the party who is coming and who is going out," Nitish said.

Kushwaha had alleged that Nitish had not called him even for five minutes for discussions on the party issues even as he was surrounded by some party leaders "for 29 out of 30 days."

"I am ready to face any action if I am telling a lie. "Wo beta ki kasam khakar kah de ki hum jhooth bol rahen hain (ask him to swear in his son's name that I am lying)," he asserted.

Kushwaha said that he was ready to meet Nitish for a discussion on issues related to the party. "I am ready to meet him any day)," Kushwaha said. He also demanded that the national executive meeting of the party should be convened immediately so that he could tell how the party had weakened. He also made it clear that he would not quit the party.

Kushwaha claimed that it was Nitish who had first invited him for discussion through the media when there was no need for it. "But now he accuses me of raising the party issues in the media," he said. Both senior JD-U leaders have had sharp exchanges in the last few days, with CM Nitish asking Kushwaha to leave the party. On the other hand, state Congress chief Akhilesh Prasad Singh claimed that Kushwaha would remain with JD-U.

PADMA SHRI AWARDS

80-year-old Kashmiri santoor maker says the award came a bit too late

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

FEELING elated over being conferred the Padma Shri award on Republic Day, the 80-year-old Kashmiri santoor craftsman Ghulam Mohammad Zaz said that he would have been happier had the award came to him much earlier when his grandfather, father and uncles were alive.

"I am happy to be conferred the Padma Shri award. However, I feel it has come a bit late. I would have been much happier had I been conferred the award when my grandfather, father and uncle were alive. I have learnt the craft from them and had the award been conferred to me when they were alive. It would not only have brought happiness to me but also to them as they were the bigger artists," said the santoor maker Ghulam Mohammad Zaz.

A resident of Zaina Kadal area of downtown Srinagar, the master craftsman Zaz is the only surviving artisan making santoor in the Valley. He was conferred with the Padma Shri civilian honour on the sidelines of the Republic Day – for the field of arts.

>
> Ghulam Mohammad Zaz

Zaz is the last of the eighth generation of santoor makers of his family – who are known for putting together the finest santoors in the valley over the past several decades.

He had started his journey as an apprentice in 1953 at the age of 12. Some of his masterpieces have been played by acclaimed Kashmiri musicians Pandit Shiv Kumar Sharma and Bhajan Lal Sopori.

Zaz said besides santoor, he also makes other instruments, including sarangi, rabab, dilruba, tanpura, sur bahar and tawoos, among others.

"These instruments are also made in other parts of India but our instruments are the best," he said.

Zaz is probably the last santoor maker Jammu and Kashmir will ever see.

He has three daughters and none of them has taken to this field. "All my relatives are not ready to follow this craft. I am 80 years old. Till I am alive, I will continue this craft," Zaz said. He, however, expressed hope that some artist from Kashmir would take up this craft so that it does not die.

Saviour of indigenous seeds bets big on millets

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

A farmer from Nanj village in Karsog valley in Mandi district of Himachal Pradesh, Nekram Sharma, has been conferred with the prestigious Padma Shri award for his contribution in agriculture, especially organic farming. Over three decades ago, Nekram tried for a government job but was unsuccessful. He turned to the 22 bighas of his family land lying unused and started growing fruits and vegetables. He also experimented with organic farming and adopted old farming techniques.

Sharma has been growing nine types of grains through organic farming. However, his responsibility has now increased manifold as he will have to work at least 18 hours a day as against 14 hours earlier. "It is the International Year of Millets. In the coming festival in Mandi, In the upcoming agri fest in Mandi, I have requested district administration that I should be allowed to put up two stalls – one in which I could display millets and the other to cook and serve to the public so that people know the benefits of millets," he said.

Grab of the article on Nekram in The Sunday Standard

People call him a 'saviour' of indigenous seeds as Nekram has adopted nau-anaj (nine-crop pattern) practice, an intercropping method in which nine food grains are grown on the same piece of land. In 2010, when he implemented Nau-Anaj, it inspired other farmers in the region as well, prompting them to form Parvatiye Tikau Kheti Abhiyan (PTKA), a cooperative of farmers.

Sharma cultivates 18 crops in kharif, rabi seasons

Foxtail millet, maize, finger millet, buckwheat, Amaranthus rajma, urad dal, moong and beans are cultivated by the organic farmer. "In a year, one can grow 18 crops (9 each in kharif and rabi)," Sharma said

Since then, thousands of farmers have connected with him with demands coming from Punjab, Haryana, UP, Rajasthan, Gujarat, and Telangana. The farmers visit him to buy the seeds, but those who cannot, request their supplies by courier, which he does.

He cultivates foxtail millet, maize, finger millet, buckwheat, Amaranthus rajma, urad dal, moong and beans.

"In a year, one can grow 18 crops (9 each for kharif and rabi). This cropping pattern has multiple benefits as it not only raises soil fertility but also causes less water consumption with almost zero input costs. There are around 20 indigenous seeds, including eight types of millets, three varieties of wheat, through intercropping system," he said.

Phosphorus weapons used in latest strikes, ten killed

Ukrainian officials said towns in the east and south suffered most

KYIV

A new barrage of Russian shelling killed at least 10 Ukrainian civilians and wounded 20 others in a day, the office of Ukraine's president said on Friday as the country worked to recover from an earlier wave of Russian missile strikes and drone attacks.

Regional officials said towns and villages in the east and in the south that are within reach of the Russian artillery suffered most. Six people died in the Donetsk region, two in Kherson, and two in the Kharkiv region. A day earlier, missiles and self-propelled drones that Russian forces fired had hit deeper into Ukrainian territory, killing 11 people.

Donetsk Gov. Pavlo Kyrylenko said the Russian military used fiercely-burning phosphorus munitions in its shelling of the village of Zvanivka, about 20 kilometres north of Bakhmut. The shelling also damaged apartment buildings and two schools in the nearby town of Vuhledar, Kyrylenko said.

The governor of Luhansk, Serhii Haidai, said Ukrainian shelling hit two Russian bases in the occupied towns of Kreminna and Rubizhne, killing and wounding "dozens" of Russian soldiers. However, his claim could not be independently verified.

Separately on Friday, Russian authorities took new steps in their effort to graft four Ukrainian provinces onto Russia's territory. They said the illegally annexed provinces would change from the time zone that covers Kyiv to the one in Moscow.

The switch in the Ukrainian southern and eastern regions that Russia declared as part of its territory four months ago—Donetsk, Luhansk, Zaporizhzhia and Kherson—will take place "in the near future," Russia's Ministry of Industry and Trade said.

The move comes as part of what the ministry called the "gradual synchronisation" of Russian legislation after the "admission of four subjects."

Meanwhile, Belgium announced a new package of military aid for Ukraine on Friday, promising cash, missiles, machine-guns and armoured vehicles to help fight off the Russian onslaught.

The Belgian shipment would notably include anti-aircraft missiles, anti-tank missiles, machine guns, grenades and other military equipment.

The new package will be worth 93.8 million euros, bringing Belgium's total military contribution to the allied support effort to 228 million euros over the year. Agencies

Must implement 13A for Tamils, says Ranil

COLOMBO

SRI Lankan President Ranil Wickremesinghe has underlined the need to fully implement the India-backed 13th Amendment to the Constitution to grant political autonomy to the minority Tamils in the country.

Addressing an all-party meeting on Thursday, Wickremesinghe also said that if anyone opposed the full implementation of 13A, the Parliament must take steps to abolish the law.

The 13A provides for the devolution of power to the Tamil community in Sri Lanka. India has been pressing Sri Lanka to implement the 13A which was brought in after the Indo-Sri Lankan agreement of 1987.

Wickremesinghe, who took over as the president last year amidst the unprecedented economic crisis and political turmoil, said that as the head of the nation, it was his duty to implement the prevailing laws. "As the president, I am duty bound to implement the prevailing law...," Wickremesinghe said.

Stating that the 13A would be fully implemented on the same basis as it was already a part of the country's Constitution, he said, "If not, parliament must take steps to abolish the 13A." The all-party conference came closely on the heels of the visit by the Indian External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar who had emphasised India's wish to see the full implementation of 13A. The 13A became part of Sri Lanka's constitution due to direct intervention by India in Sri Lanka's ethnic conflict way back in 1987. The provincial council system was part of the Indo-Lanka Accord signed by the then-Indian prime minister Rajiv Gandhi and President JR Jayewardene.

Wickremesinghe said that he would be making a special parliamentary address on February 8 incorporating the 13A implementation and other issues concerning the Tamils such as the release of lands held for military purposes.

Tamil parties up to Thursday's meeting had complained of a lack of progress in talks with Wickremesinghe since mid-December. PTI

RABI Lamichhane resigned as the Deputy Prime Minister and Home Minister of Nepal on Friday after the Supreme Court found him guilty of not producing a valid citizenship certificate to contest the parliamentary election.

Lamichhane, 48, handed over his resignation to PM Pushpa Kamal Dahal "Prachanda".

After tendering his resignation following the apex court's verdict, Lamicchane said at his office that he is no more the Deputy Prime Minister. "I am not even the president of the Rastriya Swotantra Party," he said. Welcoming the apex court's verdict he said, "I am not even the citizen of this country or Anagarik non-citizen." Lamichhane was appointed Deputy PM and Home Minister on December 25.

The Supreme Court annulled Lamichhane's status as a lawmaker, citing that the citizenship certificate he produced to contest the parliamentary election was invalid.

"As Rabi Lamichhane has not completed the process for reacquiring his Nepali citizenship after renouncing his American citizenship, he cannot be a candidate for the position of a member of the House of Representatives or be elected to that position," read the verdict.

As per the Nepalese law, any national who either decides to quit the citizenship or acquires foreign citizenship will automatically lose his Nepali citizenship.

The government led by Pushpa Kamal Dahal 'Prachanda' might face trouble as one of the key components of the ruling alliance is facing crisis due to the court verdict to nullify Lamichhane's Parliament membership. PTI

HK protests Biden extension of deportation protection

Hong Kong has protested President Joe Biden's two-year extension of a programme that protects residents of the semi-autonomous Chinese city living in the US from deportation, accusing Washington of "demonstrating sinister intentions and hegemonic bullying"

SMEARING HK'S LAW

An unidentified government spokesperson was quoted Friday as saying the US had "wantonly" smeared Hong Kong's National Security Law, imposed on the city by Beijing in 2020 as part of crackdown on democratic movement

Since the law's enactment by the Chinese legislature, at least 150 opposition politicians, activists and protesters have been taken into custody, while an unknown number of others have fled overseas

The US Government clearly stated that its latest actions are in its foreign policy interest without any attempt to disguise its motives, demonstrating sinister intentions and hegemonic bullying. The US has many laws on national security, but chooses to continue to wantonly smear the National Security Law

BIDEN'S SUPPORT TO HK CITIZENS

Biden first authorised the programme, the Deferred Enforced Departure for Certain Hong Kong Citizens, in August 2021 for 18 months. It was set to expire on February 5 but has been extended until January 2025

The decision to provide a temporary safe haven was in response to the law and other measures that reinforced Beijing's absolute control and undercut rights promised when the former British colony was handed back to China in 1997

"With this action, we are demonstrating again President Biden's strong support for the people of Hong Kong in the face of increasing repression by the (People's Republic of China)," the White House National Security Council said

Memphis braces for video release in Nichols' arrest

MEMPHIS

THE southern Unite States city of Memphis braced itself for unrest on Friday as authorities prepared to release a video depicting the fatal assault of a Black man by five police officers who, the victim's mother said, "beat him to a pulp."

The police officers, who were also Black, were charged with second-degree murder in the beating of Tyre Nicholas, 29, who died in hospital on January 10, three days after being stopped on suspicion of reckless driving.

"They had beat him to a pulp," Nicholas's mother RowVaughn Wells said. "He had bruises all over. His head was swollen like a watermelon. His neck was bursting because of the swelling."

"I knew my son was gone, even if he did live he would have been a vegetable," Wells said, sobbing.

Memphis police chief CJ Davis said the video, which will be released after 6:00 pm Central time, shows Nicholas crying out for his mother.

"What I saw on this video was more of a groupthink sort of mentality. And no one took a step to intercept or intervene," Davis told CNN. "And that's why the charges are as severe as they are."

The police officers—Tadarrius Bean, Demetrius Haley, Desmond Mills Jr., Emmitt Martin III and Justin Smith—were taken into custody after an internal investigation found them to have deployed excessive use of force.

In addition to second-degree murder charges, the officers are also facing indictments of aggravated assault and aggravated kidnapping.

Four of the five were released from jail after posting bail, US media reported on Friday.

President Joe Biden said Nichols family and Memphis deserve "a swift, full and transparent investigation." "Public trust is the foundation of public safety, and there are still many places in America today where bonds of trust are frayed or broken," he said. Agencies

Sunak's govt resists Tory demand for tax cut, says focus on cutting inflation

LONDON

BRITAIN'S Treasury chief said on Friday that taming inflation is more important than cutting taxes, resisting calls from some in the governing Conservative Party for immediate tax breaks for businesses and voters.

At a speech in London, Chancellor of the Exchequer Jeremy Hunt said "the best tax cut right now is a cut in inflation." The UK's annual inflation rate hit a four-decade high of 11.1% in October, fuelling a cost-of-living crisis and a wave of strikes by workers seeking pay raises to keep pace with rising food and energy prices.

It has since eased but still reached a painful 10.5% in December and is the highest since the 1980s.

Prime Minister Rishi Sunak has promised to halve the inflation rate from those levels by the end of the year.

Hunt said he wanted Britain to be a low-tax economy but "with volatile markets and high inflation, sound money must come first"—a sign he won't cut taxes when he makes his annual budget statement in March. The UK economy, like others around the world, has been rattled by pandemic restrictions and the shockwaves from Russia's invasion of Ukraine.

Inflation in the United Kingdom is higher than in the United States and the 20 nations that use the euro currency, with most forecasters expecting the UK economy to contract in the first half of 2023.

In his speech at the headquarters of news agency Bloomberg, Hunt argued that changes to financial regulations and other rules, made possible by Brexit, will help boost the UK's stubbornly low productivity rate. AP

Pak to hold by-polls for 33 vacant national assembly seats in March

ISLAMABAD

PAKISTAN'S top election body on Friday announced that it will hold by-elections on March 16 for the 33 seats of the National Assembly that fell vacant after the resignations of lawmakers from Imran Khan's Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf party (PTI).

The Election Commission of Pakistan (ECP) officially notified the schedule, including the nomination period by the candidates and the final holding of the elections.

Elections would be held in 12 constituencies of Punjab, nine in Sindh, eight in Khyber-Pakhtunkhwa, three in Islamabad and one in Balochistan, as per a notification issued by ECP.

The notification stated that the candidates can file their nomination papers from February 6-8 and the initial list of candidates will be published on February 9.

The nominations can be challenged and after scrutiny and other legal formalities, the final list will be published on February 23.

National Speaker Raja Pervaiz Ashraf on January 17 accepted 34 PTI resignations and followed it with 35 more on January 20.

Later, he accepted another 43 resignations on January 25 to virtually eliminate the PTI from the National Assembly.

Now the ECP has started the process of the election on the vacant seats by announcing March 16 as the date for polls on only 33 seats.

It is believed that the schedule for the other vacant seats would also be announced soon.

According to the law, elections should be held within 60 days of the seats becoming vacant on the resignation or death of any lawmaker.

However, the given rule applies only if a seat in any assembly has become vacant not later than 120 days before the term of that assembly is due to expire.

But if the time period is less than 120 days, then elections are held along with the general elections.

Pakistan's current National Assembly is set to complete its term on August 16. PTI

Adani stocks slump post Hindenburg report

Group's point by point rebuttal of Hindenburg's questions has provided little relief from aggressive sell-off

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

SHARE prices of Adani Group's listed companies fell up to 23% on Friday (intra-day) as the spat between the Group and US-based activist investor firm Hindenburg Research intensified on Thursday.

Adani's point by point rebuttal of Hindenburg's questions seems to have not provided any relief from aggressive sell-off. The two-day massive fall seen across Adani stocks has wiped out market capitalisation (m-cap) of its listed entities by ₹4 lakh crore. On Wednesday, the Group's m-cap eroded by a little less than ₹1 lakh crore and on Friday its valuation fell about ₹3 lakh crore.

Most Adani stocks closed after hitting lower circuits on Friday. Adani Total Gas, Adani Transmission and Adani Green fell 20% each, while Adani Wilmer and Adani Power were locked in to their lower circuit of 5%. Share of Adani Enterprises was down over 18% at close while those of Adani Ports (APSEZ) shed 16% to hit a new closing 52-week low.

Shares of the Group's recently acquired cement firms - Ambuja Cement and ACC – were down 13-17%, while its media outlet NDTV was down 5% on bourses. In comparison, equity market benchmarks - BSE Sensex and NSE Nifty - fell about 1.50% on Friday. Meanwhile, the follow-on public offering (FPO), largest-ever in Indian capital market, received bids for 4.7 lakh shares or 1% of the issue size of 4.55 crore shares on Friday, first day of bidding, as per the BSE data.

Fall in Adani stocks was seen after a report published by US-based short seller-Hindenburg Research. The report said shares of 7 listed Adani firms 'over valued', questioned the role of close family members, raised questions about shell firms among other allegations. Proxy advisory firm InGovern came out in Adani's support saying Hindenburg should be considered as just another market participant, which has a motivated view to release a negative report with aim to bring down the stock price.

RUPEE FALL SLOWS AS PM SHARIF HOPES FOR IMF FUNDS

Pakistani rupee's fall slowed on Friday after its value plunged over previous two days, with hopes raised by an IMF team visiting Islamabad next week to discuss unlocking a suspended bailout package. Left with $3.68 billion in foreign exchange reserves, Pakistan barely has enough to cover 3 weeks of imports and needs the IMF to release next $1 billion tranche of its bail-out programme to head off a potential default. On Friday, market rupee had weakened 1.8% to 260 per dollar in inter-bank market by afternoon, with the fall slowing after a 9.6% drop on Thursday. Rupee's biggest single-day fall in over two decades came a day after forex firms removed a cap on exchange rate traded in open market, taking Pakistan closer to market-determined exchange rate regime favoured by the IMF. On Friday, rupee fell 1.1% on open market to trade between 263-265 per dollar, said Exchange Currency Association of Pakistan. Removal of cap resulted in 2 markets aligning more closely and exchange firms expected a black market in dollars to eventually dry up.

JAPAN

BOJ DEPLOYS FUNDS-SUPPLY TOOL AGAIN

The Bank of Japan (BOJ) said on Friday it will extend five-year loans against collateral to financial institutions, the second time it has made such an offer after ramping up the funds-supply operation this month to defend its yield control policy. The announcement underscores the central bank's resolve to prevent simmering market speculation of a near-term interest rate hike from pushing up bond yields too much. The BOJ will conduct the funds-supply operation on Tuesday, under which it will offer loans with a five-year duration from February 1, it said in a statement. The amount of loans to be offered will be announced on Tuesday, it added. The announcement came after the 10-year Japanese government bond (JGB) yield crept up near the BOJ's 0.5 per cent cap on Friday, partly on data showing core consumer inflation in the capital Tokyo hit a near 42-year high of 4.3% in January. In the previous offer made on Monday, the BOJ extended five-year loans worth 3.13 trillion yen (S$31.7 billion). The minimum bid interest rate was 0.110%.

HONG KONG

HOME PRICES DROP 15.6% IN 2022

Private home prices in Hong Kong, one of the most unaffordable territories in the world, fell 15.6 per cent in 2022 in the first annual drop since 2008, official data showed on Friday. Prices in the Asian financial hub were weighed down by a weak economic outlook and rising mortgage costs, following a Covid-19 outbreak at the beginning of the year. December saw the seventh consecutive month of decline, the data showed, with prices down 2.0 per cent from a month earlier to the lowest since April 2017. That compared with a revised 3.2 per cent drop in November and a 2.6 per cent fall in October. For 2023, real estate consultancies expect home prices to remain soft though stabilise in the second half after an expected peak in interest rates. The city's economy fell into a recession, with output shrinking at an annual rate of 3.3 per cent in the first nine months last year. Exports tanked while local businesses slumped under one of the toughest Covid-19 curbs in the world. An exodus of expatriates also weakened demand and prices for homes in the city.

No material risk to banks because of exposure to Adani Group, say reports

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Mumbai

INDIAN banks don't face any material risk due to their exposure to Adani Group debt, said CLSA and Jefferies on Friday.

The share of banks' funding in Adani Group's overall debt mix is showing a declining trend, said the global brokerage firms.

"The ballpark exposure of private banks is 0.3 percent of FY24 loans and 1.5 percent of FY24 net-worth. For PSU banks, the exposure is 0.7 percent of FY24 loans and 6 percent of FY24 net-worth," said CLSA in a report.

CLSA estimates banking exposure to the Group is 0.55% of system loans as bank debt stands at less than 40% of total Group borrowing. Within this, PSU banks' exposure as a share of their loans is 0.7%, with the figures for some banks potentially at more than 1% of loans, while for private banks the exposure is 0.3% of loans.

"While we watch for developments here, we don't see material risk arising to the Indian banking sector," brokerage firm Jefferies said in a note.

The share of bank debt in overall Group debt has reduced materially and we estimate incrementally banks have only lent ₹150 billion (₹15,000 cr) or 15% of the ₹1 trillion the Group companies have borrowed over the past three years. As per the brokerage, the Group's debt accounts for 0.5% of total loans across the Indian banking sector.

Adani slips to 7th spot on rich list, net worth below $100 bn

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA'S and Asia's richest billionaire Gautam Adani's fortune fell sharply on Friday and his ranking in the global rich list came down to seventh spot.

As per Forbes Real Times Billionaire Index, Adani's wealth fell $22.6 billion in a single session on Friday and his fortune fell below the coveted $100 billion mark to $96.4 billion. Adani is now placed below Microsoft founder Bill Gates, whose fortune was estimated at $104 billion at the rich list.

Adani, who runs the port-to-power conglomerate, had scaled to second position in the rich list last year when Group stock prices saw a big rally. He remained at third position for a long time and was recently replaced by Amazon founder Jeff Bezos ($122billion). Bernard Arnault (Louis Vitton) dominates the rich list with a fortune of $215 billion, followed by Elon Musk (Tesla, SpaceX, Twitter) whose net worth was last pegged at $170 billion.

Gautam Adani wealth falls below Bill Gates

As per Forbes Real Times Billionaire Index, Adani's wealth fell $22.6 bn in a single session on Friday and his fortune fell below the coveted $100 bn mark to $96.4 bn. Adani is now placed below Microsoft founder Bill Gates, whose fortune was at $104 billion at the world rich list

Adani's business rival and Reliance Industries (RIL) Chairman Mukesh Ambani was at 10th spot in the list with a fortune of $83.6 billion.

Gautam Adani's fall in the wealth list comes after share prices of Group companies fell up to 23% on Friday. The fall was triggered by US-based activist investor Hindenburg Research, which called the share prices of its 7 listed firms 'over valued', questioned the role of close family members, raised objection about shell firms among other allegations.

Adani's rise in the global rich list has been extraordinary. In just a few years, he has seen meteoric rise. He has risen to become one of the world's richest individual, a feat that no Indian has ever achieved.

Tata Motors hikes prices of passenger vehicles by 1.2%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TATA MOTORS has announced a price increase across its internal combustion engine (ICE) portfolio of passenger vehicles effective February 1, 2023. The weighted average increase will be 1.2%, depending on the variant and model.

"The company has been absorbing a significant portion of the increased costs on account of regulatory changes and rise in input costs and hence passing on some portion through this hike," Tata Motors said in a statement.

The announcement comes after the company reported a net profit of ₹2,958 crore for the quarter ending December 31, 2022 (Q3FY23).

Earlier, Maruti Suzuki announced a price hike of up to 1.1% across its portfolio. Hyundai too raised vehicle prices earlier this month.

Tata Steel, Adani among others vying for NMDC steel plant

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

INDIA'S top steel makers including Tata Steel, Jindal Steel and Power (JSPL), JSW, Vedanta Group and Adani Group are vying for under-construction NMDC Steel plant at Nagarnar, Chhattisgarh, which is a separate steel unit of government-owned NMDC Ltd. '

All these companies have submitted their expressions of interest (EoI) to buy government's holding in it, according to the market sources. The central government will offload 50.79% of its 60.79% shares in the Nagarnar unit that is being set up with an investment of ₹20,000 crore.

The new plant with an annual capacity of 3 million tonnes per annum is likely to be commissioned by the end of current fiscal.

JSPL, JSW declined to comment. Meanwhile, no response was received on email sent to Adani Group and calls went unanswered to Tata Steel and Vedanta Group. The government has received multiple EoIs for the strategic disinvestment of NMDC Steel Ltd, tweeted DIPAM Secretary Tuhin Kanta Pandey on Friday.

"Multiple expressions of interest received for the strategic disinvestment of NMDC Steel. The transaction will now move to the second stage," Pandey said, in a tweet, without disclosing the name of bidders. January 27 was the last date of submission of EoIs.

"It takes years for companies to set up a greenfield steel plant and the NMDC Steel plant is already ready for commission. It is situated closest to the best quality iron ore resource base and with good rail connectivity too. So, why wouldn't any steel company not want to bid for it," Arnab Kumar Hazra, deputy secretary general of Indian Steel Association told this newspaper.

The steel plant is 290-km away from Vizag port. Though the plant is running behind schedule, it is likely to be highly profitable as it is close to mines and ports and has captive iron ore mines.

MF industry to move to T+2 payment cycle

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

MOVING in tandem with the stock exchanges, the mutual fund (MF) industry on Friday announced shifting to shorter payment cycle.

The Association of Mutual Funds in India (AMFI) said all asset management companies (AMCs) will move to T+2 redemption payment cycle for equity schemes from February 1.

Domestic equity markets have moved to T+1 settlement cycle for stocks from Friday, shortening settlement cycle by a day and making availability of funds a day sooner.

To pass on this benefit to MF investors, it has been decided to adopt the T+2 redemption payment cycle for equity schemes, and implement this uniformly with effect from February 1, 2023, after allowing a couple of days for the settlement cycle/process to stabilise, said AMFI in a statement. "T+1 settlement cycle for Indian equity markets is a global first. As an industry, we want to pass on benefit to our MF investors and hence we are adopting a T+2 redemption payment cycle for equity funds," said A Balasubramanian, MD & CEO of Aditya Birla Mutual Fund and Chairman, AMFI.

Currently, MF industry is following T+3 redemption payment cycle, which means investors have to wait for three days to get their money credited. NS Venkatesh, CEO of AMFI, added that, "Since the day Sebi announced the phased movement of equity markets to T+1 settlement cycle, the industry has been preparing to shorten the redemption payment cycle."

India's financial system robust, current account deficit manageable: RBI Guv

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

RESERVE BANK OF INDIA (RBI) Governor Shaktikanta Das on Friday said India's current account deficit is 'eminently manageable'.

He said Indian economy is resilient and the country's financial system is robust and stable, thanks to strong macro fundamentals.

"The average current account deficit to GDP ratio stands at 3.3% during the first half of financial year 2022-23. The slowing global demand is weighing on merchandise exports, but our exports of services and remittances remain strong," said the Governor in his keynote address at a conference held in Dubai. "The net balance under services and remittances remains in a large surplus, partly offsetting the trade deficit. Consequently, the current account deficit is eminently manageable and within the parameters of viability," he said.

Talking about the high prices, he said inflation has come down though core inflation remains sticky and elevated. "In this hostile and uncertain international environment, the Indian economy remains resilient, drawing strength from its macroeconomic fundamentals. Our financial system remains robust and stable," he said.

"Banks and corporates are healthier than before the crisis. Bank credit is growing in double digits. India is widely seen as a bright spot in an otherwise gloomy world," he added.

The size of forex reserves is comfortable and has gone up from $524 billion on October 21, 2022, to $572 billion as of January 13, 2023." "India's external debt ratios are low by international standards. This has enabled the central bank to eschew measures to control capital flows."

Smartphone shipment in India declines 9%, premium segment sees growth

SAMSUNG LEADS IN SMARTPHONE MARKET

South Korean tech giant Samsung led India's smartphone market revenue with 20% share, driven by its premium smartphone models, especially Galaxy S22 series. Samsung increased its share in premium segment and re-captured second position. Premium segment continued to rise and captured a double-digit share for the first time

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA'S smartphone shipments declined 9% year-on-year (YoY) to reach over 152 million units in 2022, according to the latest research from Counterpoint's Market Monitor service.

However, the premium segment continued to rise and captured a double-digit share for the first time, leading to growth in retail average selling price (ASP).

According to the research, the decline is the second-largest ever in India's smartphone market and it can be attributed to the decline in entry-level and budget segments, which faced supply constraints at the beginning of the year.

"Despite declining shipments, premium smartphone market's share kept rising in 2022 and reached 11%, the highest-ever. This paradoxical trend implies that India's smartphone market is moving from being volume-driven to value-driven. While entry-tier and budget segments were most affected, the premium segment remained immune and showed double-digit growth," said analyst Shilpi Jain.

South Korean tech giant Samsung led the India smartphone market revenue with 20% share, driven by its premium smartphone models, especially Galaxy S22 series. Samsung increased its share in the premium segment and re-captured second position. Apple rose from the fourth position in 2021 in revenue share and captured the second position in 2022. iPhone 13 held the top smartphone model spot in 2022. Chinese brands saw a decline in value share cumulatively, capturing 60% revenue share in 2022 as compared to 65% in 2021.

MAJOR IMPACT: SANIA MAKES GRAND EXIT

Despite missing out on a title in her last Grand Slam tournament, tennis star's massive contribution to Indian sports, both on and off the court, will always be remembered

HAPPY TEARS

After the final, Sania Mirza broke down in the middle of her speech. She had to pause and speak. "If I cry, these are happy tears. That's just a disclaimer. I'm still going to play a couple of more tournaments," she said during an on-court interaction.

"My journey of my professional career started in Melbourne... in 2005 when I played Serena Williams in the third round as an 18-year-old," Mirza said (Australian Open website). "That was scarily enough 18 years ago and I've had the privilege to come back here again and again and win some titles here. Rod Laver Arena has really been special in my life... To play the final, obviously we couldn't get over the line, but there's no better place and no better person to finish my Grand Slam career with."

> I never thought I'd be able to play in front of my child in a Grand Slam final, so it's truly special for me to have my four-year-old here and my parents here, Rohan's wife here. – Sania Mirza

IT couldn't have happened any other way. In the week Indian women's sport soared to never-before-seen heights, its OG superstar, Sania Mirza, bid farewell from big-time tennis. The ace, partnering Rohan Bopanna, lost in the mixed doubles final of the Australian Open on Friday. The result, though, is really irrelevant here. She didn't need to win that final. Her legacy in the Indian sporting ecosystem was safe and secure long before she announced that this year's edition of the Open would be her final dance with the stars (she aims to play two more events before retiring).

What was thrilling about the Mirza experience even from the beginning was the unabashedness of it all. She never hid who she was and challenged India's conservative mindset at every step of the way. Remember the t-shirt slogan that had "Well behaved women rarely make history" or the one that read "You can either agree with me, or be wrong". These may seem small in 2023 — or maybe not — but there was literally a point of time when what was written across her t-shirt became prime time news. "It is scary that every time I wear a T-shirt, it becomes a talking point for the next three days," she had remarked once. She had just turned 19 when she was forced to say this after a few people questioned her attire. This was a few months after she became the first Indian woman to advance to the fourth round of a Major (2005 US Open).

Backed by a stinging forehand and the capacity to chase down lost causes — her big weapons that was visible at Melbourne over the course of the last 10 days — the teenager ascended up the rankings, like a champion climber. Before the start of 2005, she was No 326, a promising player. By the beginning of 2006, she was on the cover of magazines and the back pages of newspapers as she tore through the circuit picking up wins over more established players. One of the first times she made an impression among the wider public was the prime time match she played against Serena Williams at Rod Laver in 2005. For a country not that well versed in the field of singles tennis, Mirza was changing the grammar, almost overnight.

She did it in a style that was considered un-Indian. Doing it on her own terms. Raising her game, fighting, challenging the establishment, hard but fair. In 2006 alone, she took down Martina Hingis, Svetlana Kuznetsova and Nadia Petrova. Injuries meant she had to switch to doubles but she worked on it till she became the best. Then, she worked on it some more to stay there, one of the hardest things in professional sport.

Now, it's important to say that she was showing millions of Indians what was possible while fighting other Indians who tried to mock her for what she represented. A young, confident woman. During the WTA Finals in 2015, when this daily asked if she ever takes a step back to think about her younger days, she had said: "I think about it a few times. Especially when I became No 1, those memories came back. All the things that were told, that we weren't going to achieve... you have to feel proud of the things you have achieved from limited resources."

And, boy, didn't she shush the haters with her achievements? One of the first women's World No 1s. The only Indian singles player to be seeded at a Slam in the last 20 years. Only Indian woman to have won a Tour-level singles title. More than 40 doubles titles. Year-end Finals titles (for a period of time, SanTina, the doubles team comprising Sania and Hingis, was a story in itself). For 91 consecutive weeks, she was World No 1. That is still a record for an Indian woman across disciplines. She was also daring because she knew of the immense platform she commanded. She questioned this idea of 'settling down' to a prime time TV anchor. She spoke out in favour of women empowerment. In another interview to this daily, she spoke about dispelling this notion of motherhood = quiet retirement. "Anything that happens after this in my career will be a plus," she had said in December 2019, after giving birth to Izhaan. "... I also felt that I had a responsibility as a woman that some people looked up to sort of show or prove that just because you have a baby, 'it's not the end of the world.' It's the beginning'. You don't need to give up on your dreams just because you have a baby. Women really can have it all."

Rampant Djokovic surges into final

AFP @ Melbourne

A RAMPANT Novak Djokovic surged into a 10th Australian Open final Friday to close in on a record-equalling 22nd Grand Slam crown, with only Stefanos Tsitsipas now standing in his way. The Serbian fourth seed overcame an early wobble to romp past unseeded American Tommy Paul 7-5, 6-1, 6-2 on Rod Laver Arena in style.

Another title on Sunday will move him alongside Rafael Nadal with 22 Slam wins and see the 35-year-old return to World No 1 for the first time since last June.

Greek third seed Tsitsipas, who ground past Russian 18th seed Karen Khachanov 7-6 (2), 6-4, 6-7 (6), 6-3 in the other semifinal, can also become the top-ranked player should he lift the trophy.

Djokovic played the clash without father Srdjan courtside after he was filmed posing with a man holding a Russian flag featuring Vladimir Putin's face following his son's quarterfinal win on Wednesday. The incident sparked a backlash from Ukraine and led to calls for Djokovic's father to be banned from the tournament.

Results: Men's singles: Semifinals: Novak Djokovic (SRB x4) bt Tommy Paul (USA) 7-5, 6-1, 6-2; Stefanos Tsitsipas (GRE x3) bt Karen Khachanov (RUS x18) 7-6 (2), 6-4, 6-7 (6), 6-3.

Srdjan issued a statement ahead of the semifinal saying he would stay away, insisting he "wishes only for peace" and never wanted to cause "disruption". There was an empty seat next to his mother Dijana during the match.

"I'm really thankful that I have enough gas in my legs to be able to play at this level on one of the biggest tennis courts in the world," Djokovic said. The win extended his unbeaten streak at the Australian Open to 27 matches to claim sole ownership of the Open-era record at Melbourne Park ahead of Andre Agassi. He will meet Tsitsipas next after the Greek battled into his first Australian final and only second at a Grand Slam. In the previous one, at Roland Garros in 2021, he fell to Djokovic in five sets after holding a 2-0 lead.

Germany made a sensational comeback after being two goals down to beat Australia 4-3 in the semifinal | DEBADATTA MALLICK

German challenge for Belgium

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Bhubaneswar

THE Germans are coming and you can't do anything about it. Well, you can try and stop them but it feels like the world's worst job now. After burgling England in the quarterfinals of the World Cup two nights ago, they performed another job, this time over Australia to reach their first final since 2010.

Australia had led the game for the first 51 minutes and again took the lead with less than 120 seconds but with Germany, no lead is safe. Not against this rebranded, retrained side. Coach Andre Henning, after seeing his side come-from-behind to beat England in the shoot-out, had made the point about the importance of getting back some of the values the team had lost over the last few years.

They have also tweaked their tactics. "The biggest change is in tactics," skipper Mats Grambusch said after the match. "We played man-to-man against Australia in the Olympics. Now we changed to zonal. On top of that, our on-ball game today was unbelievable. I think we didn't concede any counterattacks because of our ball-possession game and we created lots of circle entries. Those two things were the biggest differences compared to Tokyo."

If the win over England was sheer bloody-mindedness, this win over Australia was coming. The Kookaburras had taken the lead early doors but the pressure was beginning to tell well before they cracked. At half-time, coach Andre Henning told the players they were being too polite. "I believe he was completely right," Grambusch explained.

"We were too polite in opposition 'D'. There were too many chances which we just didn't...dribbling and stuff like that. We just got to be straightforward in the 'D', hit it towards the target. That's what we didn't do well in the first quarter. We knew they are going to be strong, tough and athletic. We stepped back a little too much. That's something we did change." The other significant chance between Tokyo and now is the identity of the drag-flicker, Gonzalo Peillat. He's widely recognised as the best flicker in the game currently and he showed why in a devastating display of ball-striking from the top of the D. In the end, a treble was just reward for the way in which he made Australia pay.

Peillat, who played for Argentina before shifting his allegiance following a falling out with the board, also revealed the kind of differences in the mental make-up of Germany and his former side, Argentina. "F my heart is about to explode," he said in the mixed zone. "I say to the boys, this time, let's try not to win always in the last second. It's a different culture. We are really calm. Until the last second, we are there trying to find opportunities.

"The difference with Argentina is, we are more passionate and lose our minds a little bit. With German culture, we are more calm and trying to go for the tactics, trying to find what is the weakness point from the opponent. That's the difference."

U-19 Women's T20 WC: India storm into final

AGENCIES @ Potchefstroom (S Africa)

OPENER Shweta Sehrawat smashed an unbeaten fifty after Parshavi Chopra's triple strike as India notched up a comprehensive eight-wicket win over New Zealand to storm into the final of the inaugural Under-19 Women's T20 World Cup here on Friday.

India restricted New Zealand to 107/9 with Parshavi (3/20) leading a disciplined bowling effort after skipper Shafali Verma elected to bowl in the first semifinals. The 16-year-old legspinner broke the backbone of the Kiwi batting line-up with three successive wickets to leave them at 74/5 in 13th over. Titas Sadhu, Mannat Kashyap, Shafali and Archana Devi also scalped one wicket each.

Chasing 108, India romped home after Sehrawat produced a 45-ball unconquered knock which was studded with 10 hits to the fence. Brief scores: NZ Women U-19 107/9 in 20 ovs (Plimmer 35, Gaze 26; Parshavi 3/20) lost to India U-19 110/2 in 14.2 ovs (Sehrawat 61 n.o; Browning 2/18).

DEVON Conway and Daryl Mitchell conjured up fluent and fiery half-centuries before the spinners choked the hosts as New Zealand outplayed India by 21 runs in the opening T20I to take a 1-0 lead in the three-match series on Friday. It was also their first win of the tour.

Asked to take first strike, opener Conway continued his purple patch with a 35-ball 52, while Mitchell smashed a 30-ball unbeaten 59, which included a last-over thrashing of Arshdeep Singh for 27 runs, to power the Black Caps to a challenging 176 for six.

The Kiwi bowlers, led by Mitchell Santner (2/11) and Michael Bracewell (2/31), then spun a web around the home batters, restrict India to 155 for 9 in 20 overs. India had a disastrous start to their chase with both Ishan Kishan (4) and Rahul Tripathi (0) sent back to the pavillion by the third over.

Brief scores: NZ 176/6 in 20 ovs (Mitchel 59 n.o, Conway 52; Washington 2/22) bt India 155/9 in 20 ovs (Suryakumar 47, Washington 50; Santner 2/11, Bracewell 2/31).

TN win but Saurashtra, Andhra enter quarters

AGENCIES @ Chennai

DESPITE a loss in the final league match against Tamil Nadu here at MA Chidambaram Stadium, Chennai, Saurashtra advanced to the knockout stage of the Ranji Trophy from Group B. Andhra, which defeated Assam by an innings and 95 runs on Thursday, also made it to the quarterfinals. The drawn game between Mumbai and Maharashtra at Brabourne Stadium, Mumbai on Friday helped the teams to advance.

Though Saurashtra, Andhra and Maharashtra finished equal on 26 points after the seven rounds of the league phase, the first two teams entered the quarterfinals while Maharashtra missed out because they did not gain any bonus points. Andhra's win with a bonus point against Assam helped them pip Maharashtra. Mumbai were in the reckoning and needed to win or secure a first innings lead to grab three points and reach 26 points. However, they managed only 1 after a tie with Maharashtra on the first innings score of 384 in the final round match.

In Chennai, left-arm spinner S Ajith Ram came up with a six-wicket haul to propel Tamil Nadu to a 59-run win over Saurashtra. Needing 266 for victory, the visiting team was bowled out for 206 in 68.2 overs as Harvik Desai's marathon knock of 101 went in vain. Resuming at the overnight 4 for 1, Saurashtra slumped to 18 for 4 in the 12th over with Ram picking up the scalps of night-watchman Chetan Sakariya (1) and Sheldon Jackson (1). M Siddharth, another left-arm spinner, removed Chirag Jani (13). It was TN's second win of the season and helped them finish with 25 points and in the fifth spot.

Meanwhile, Hyderabad succumbed to a nine-wicket defeat to Delhi to end a dismal season with six straight defeats. They will be relegated to the Plate group next season.

Amsterdam unveils its largest bike garage. It's underwater

Plagued by ever-shrinking space to park its hundreds of thousands of bicycles, Amsterdam opened Wednesday the first of its largest-ever bicycle parking complexes, built underwater in a pioneering engineering project

Capacity for 11,000 bikes

They will have a combined capacity for 11,000 bikes in the cycling-mad Dutch capital

"Together the shelters will be the largest in the city," the Amsterdam municipality said, with the Open Haven Front storage able to take 7,000 bicycles and the IJ-side site around 4,000

Constructed beneath the Open Haven Front

The shelter is constructed beneath the Open Haven Front, an access tributary to the city's IJ river, and will be followed by another next to the IJ itself that will open in February

Draining open haven front Construction started in 2019 and involved draining part of the Open Haven Front next to Amsterdam Central Station

Construction of the bike garage

A time-lapse video posted by the Amsterdam municipality showed how the water was pumped out, the structure built and the area eventually reflooded

Making the most of the small space

"We have a lot of knowledge and expertise when it comes to water," Dutch deputy infrastructure minister Vivianne Heijnen said at the opening ceremony

This storage "makes optimal use of the space you have in a small country", she said

Reaching the garage through coveyor belts

Conveyor belts take cyclists nine metres below ground level, according to wUrck, the architectural firm that designed the ultramodern parking spaces that aim to evoke their oceanic surroundings

The cyclist steps into an imaginary oyster with a rough exterior of basalt and natural stone and a smooth, light interior

REPUBLICANS SEEK TO CURTAIL USE OF U.S. OIL STOCKPILE

A bill by the Grand Old Party, set for a vote on Friday, would require the government to offset any non-emergency withdrawals from Strategic Petroleum Reserve

ENERGY

WASHINGTON: For the second time this month, House Republicans are seeking to restrict presidential use of the nation's emergency oil stockpile—a proposal that has already drawn a White House veto threat.

A GOP bill set for a vote on Friday would require the government to offset any non-emergency withdrawals from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve with new drilling on public lands and oceans. Republicans accuse President Joe Biden of abusing the reserve for political reasons to keep gas prices low, while Biden says tapping the reserve was needed last year in response to a ban on Russian oil imports following President Vladimir Putin's invasion of Ukraine.

Biden withdrew 180 million barrels from the strategic reserve over several months, bringing the stockpile to its lowest level since the 1980s. The administration said last month it will start to replenish the reserve now that oil prices have gone down.

White House press secretary Karine Jean-Pierre attacked the latest GOP proposal, which follows a bill approved two weeks ago that would prohibit the Energy Department from selling oil from the strategic reserve to companies owned or influenced by the Chinese Communist Party.

"House Republicans will vote to raise gas prices on American families ... and help Putin's war aims by interfering with our ability to release oil," Jean-Pierre said, referring to the current GOP bill. "These extreme policies would subject working families to immense financial pain and balloon our deficit, all just to benefit the wealthiest taxpayers and big corporations." Energy Secretary Jennifer Granholm, appearing with Jean-Pierre at the White House, said the bill would make it "harder to offer Americans relief in the future" from oil disruptions that could raise prices.

Republican Rep. Cathy McMorris Rodgers, who chairs the House Energy and Commerce Committee and sponsored the GOP bill, accused Granholm and the White House of multiple misleading claims, including an erroneous assertion that the bill could affect use of the reserve during a presidentially declared emergency.

"At a time when gas prices are on the rise, Secretary Granholm and the Biden administration need to be transparent with the American people about their efforts to cover up how they've abused the Strategic Petroleum Reserve as an election-year gimmick," McMorris Rodgers said.

"Republicans want durable, long-lasting relief at the pump. The best way to do this is by unleashing American energy," which her legislation helps accomplish, added McMorris Rodgers, of Washington state.

The heated rhetoric is part of a larger fight over oil drilling and climate change. Republicans say restrictions on oil leasing imposed by the Biden administration hamper US energy production and harm the economy, while Democrats tout a sweeping climate law approved last year as a crucial step to wean the nation off fossil fuels. The measure authorises billions in spending to boost renewable energy such as wind and solar power.

Sania Mirza and Rohan Bopanna ended up with a runners-up trophy at the mixed doubles category of Australian Open 2023. The last Grand Slam of Mirza was an emotional one for many who know her and share how she paved the path for young girls

A Grand Goodbye

MONIKA MONALISA

SANIA Mirza and Rohan Bopanna's mixed doubles partnership at the Australian Open 2023 has been a spectacle. The duo settled for the runners-up trophy, as a result of 6-7, 2-6 defeat to Luisa Stefani and Rafael Matos. Despite the defeat, the match is still considered special as it was Mirza's last Grand Slam match.

Sharmada Balu, who initially trained at the Sania Mirza Tennis Academy, feels the duo making it to the finals itself is phenomenal. "The perfect fairytale ending would have been had they won. That's what all of us were hoping for. Despite not winning, it is phenomenal to even be in the finals. The ending is quite poetic because he was her first mixed doubles' partner and her last too," say Balu, a coach at Rohan Bopanna's Academy. In a special word for Mirza, she says, "She has broken many barriers and it's really inspiring to see someone lead the path for many of us."

Former tennis player Deeraj Shetty met Mirza sometime in 1999-2000 when she came to spend time at the Mahesh Bhupathi Tennis Academies in Bengaluru. "The Australian Open could not have been more perfect than this. The fact that they came all the way till the end, I feel, is good karma for all that she has given to Indian tennis. For her family to be as open-minded as they were over 25 years ago is nothing short of extraordinary," says Shetty, who was earlier in Melbourne to watch the Australian Open live.

When Mirza broke into the top 30 WTA ranking, it was a landmark moment in Indian tennis history. Coach Arjun Gowtham recalls, "What she has accomplished during her journey is something I hope other Indians are also able to. Being in the top 30 in singles, Number 1 in doubles, and then concluding her career at a Slam is huge for Indian tennis." With Bengaluru boy Bopanna by her side, Gowtham adds, "He was not there just for his own journey. For both Saina and Rohan to play this mixed doubles is like the perfect end for her," he concludes.

"I am still going to play a couple of more tournaments. My journey of professional career started in Melbourne in 2005, when I played with Serena Williams as an 18-year-old. I have had the privilege to come back here again and again and win some tournaments, and win some great finals amongst you all. Rod Laver Arena has been special in my life and could not have thought of a better arena to finish my [Grand Slam] career at."

PACKING A PUNCH

Comedian and host of Shark Tank India Season 2, Rahul Dua is returning to the city after an extended hiatus, ahead of which he chats with CE

DESE GOWDA

FROM being one of the stand out performers on Season 1 of Prime Video's Comicstaan to hosting the show's Season 3 season finale and now helming the reality investment show, Shark Tank India, comedian Rahul Dua has come a long way in the last few years.

After an extended hiatus, the 28-year-old is returning to Bengaluru in February, as part of the India tour of his show Oh Hello! Originally conceived in 2019, the show was put on hold for more than two years thanks to the pandemic. Now, armed with a fresh perspective and newer material, Dua has resumed the tour and hopes to offer a unique take on the lockdown, Indian families and their many quirks. "There's a reason why the show is called Oh Hello! There are surprises for sure. It's a family-friendly show, revolving around my experiences, daily observations and anecdotes about what it was like to live with family during the pandemic. Essentially, the weird and eccentric behaviours that I noticed," Dua explains. "The material has evolved drastically from the time I started working on it. My comedic sensibilities have also evolved since, so a few bits that were on the show before are no longer there."

Hosting for television was an entirely different challenge. There are no parallels between hosting a television show and hosting a live comedy show. In a live show, all the pressure is on the host to keep the show running smoothly. If a comic bombs, you then have to get the viewers' energy up for the next comic. But on Shark Tank, the emphasis was not on the host. S/he is more like a replacement for a voice-over artiste

Rahul Dua, comedian

Before he resumed the tour, Dua was busy filming for Shark Tank India Season 2, having replaced Ranvijay Singha as host. Terming it as an 'exhilarating experience that was unlike he had ever done before', Dua points out it was full of challenges and new learnings despite his previous experience hosting live shows. "Hosting for television was an entirely different challenge. There are no parallels between hosting a television show and hosting a live comedy show. In a live show, all the pressure is on the host to keep the show running smoothly. If a comic bombs, you then have to get the viewers' energy up for the next comic. But on Shark Tank, the emphasis was not on the host. S/he is more like a replacement for a voice-over artiste," he shares.

A popular comic in India and outside, Dua finds viewers abroad tending to be more receptive to his material. "Since my shows feature over 60 per cent Hindi, most of my fans outside the country are of Indian origin. Yet, the audience over there are more receptive than in India. Maybe because my shows take them down memory lane and help them relate back home. Also, once you go overseas, you have a better understanding of cultural appropriation. In a way, they are far more accepting. But back home, especially in places like my hometown Ludhiana, audiences aren't as exposed to layered comedy," he explains, adding that he doesn't face such problems in cities such as Bengaluru, Hyderabad and Mumbai, etc.

Meanwhile, despite his continued success, Dua says that the 'inherent insecurity' within the industry means that being a comedian can often be stressful. "Every comedian is replaceable from a brand standpoint. Whenever someone wants to host a standup show, all they want to do is have a good time for an hour. It doesn't really matter which comedian they book. Hence, the industry is inherently insecure. No matter how established you are, you are always wondering why you didn't get a particular gig. And this can really take a toll on a comic's mental health," he shares.

FIT BIT

SUKHASANA NAMASKAR
(EASY POSE NAMASKAR)

It is a beginner level sitting pose. With the easy crossing of the legs and erect back and neck, the upper body can stay relaxed for some hours. If performed at the end of a yoga session it can bring breath and mind under control.

STEPS

- Sit on the mat with legs stretched out, keeping the spine straight. Place your hands on the thighs with elbows bent.
- Now, take a few breaths here and connect the breath with the body.
- Inhale, fold the right foot under the left thigh and left foot under the right thigh. Cross the legs at the mid shins, and not at your ankles. Your pubic bone and the cross of your shins should be in one line.
- Keep your ankles flexed a little so that your feet are on their outside edges, perpendicular to the floor.
- Your soles face the sides and toes face forward. Keep the head, neck and back straight. Draw your abdomen softly inward and upward.

A 'KICK-START' TO A NEW YEAR!

RUBINATIONS
Rubi Chakravarti
Writer, actor and funny girl

I JUST bundled myself up in a warm sweater before I sat on the computer and lo and behold! The Sol decided to show her face again! I bet most of you thought of the 'sun' as a masculine gender but wrong again. The sol, sun or whatever else you may deem to call it is of a feminine gender!

Even though the weather has been kind, tempers have been frayed. No place is a safe place. At a very highfalutin soiree, an angry and inebriated (wannabe) social being, first tried to make a spectacle of oneself on the dance floor and since that was not garnering enough eyeballs, proceeded to maliciously kick another guest! Stunned into submission, the guest beat a hasty retreat. But of course, the news got out and we all discussed how we should deal with such debased behaviour from our 'frisky-filly'. A word of caution: Check the 'guestlist' under a microscope before you let the 'microbes' in!

Thankfully, we were far away from the madding crowd in the elegant confines of The Leela Palace surrounded by genteel people who were thrilled to be witnessing our very own homegrown hero Ricky Kej's concert. A two-time Grammy award winner, he is also the Ambassador of the United Nations High Commission for Refugees. His strong message about compassion, sustainability, and nature...with its inter-dependency with mankind is at the core of all his music. His songs on Ganga, Cauveryamma and Kudrath mesmerised us with their impactful lyrics and soulful melodies. The Afghan refugee Abi Safa's song touched every heart in that room. His 'Rhythm of the Earth' pan-India tour kicked off in namma ooru, with a lot of Ricky's friends and fans rooting for him in the audience. Kudos to GM Madhav Sehgal, who I know for a fact, did not rest till he pulled off this musical coup.

Tammy Ben-Haim, the easy-going and friendly Consul General of South India and her good looking deputy, Limor Bletter hosted an intimate party at The Den Hotel. The room teemed with representatives from various consulates and guests who enjoyed the fun quiz and the premiere screening of season 4 of the spy thriller Fauda. The party continued with a great DJ, a free-flowing bar and plenty to eat. The young all-women team is engaging and friendly, as they showcase a different side to a new and vibrant Israel.

Carla Coles, Miron & Anna Thomas, Andrew Carla-Coles with Limor Bletter

The genial Raunak Kundu, founder of Bangalore Foodies-Club, has invited me to dine with him on numerable occasions, but unfortunately, I was always committed elsewhere. This time, though the restaurant 'Stories Brewery and Kitchen,' was well off my beaten track (BTM 2nd Stage!!), I managed to make it there for an 'exclusive cocktail sit-down dinner'. Chef Vikas Pathak pulled out all the stops and we were treated to a dinner that surpassed many five-star hotels in taste and presentation! Chatting with the young owner, I was pleasantly surprised at how business savvy he was. Apparently the locals flock to these watering holes rather than making a long potholed-ridden trek into town!

A smidgen of intelligence sprinkled with resourcefulness is the key ingredient in the 'secret sauce of success'.

Pallavi Nigam Sahay's A Sip in Time is ideal for those laidback moments when tea and tea-time treats offer the perfect respite from a tiring day

What's your chai-ce of tea?

ANUSHREE MADHAVAN

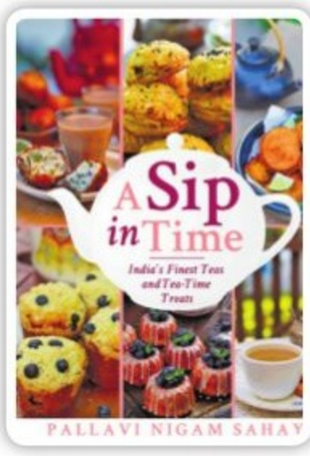
WHEN the skies open up during monsoon, social media posts on hot chai accompanied by a bowl of pakoda does not necessarily evoke any emotion for a coffee enthusiast. So, when I, a tea-totaller, got my hands on Pallavi Nigam Sahay's A Sip in Time, all I looked forward to was the recipes she had presented to be paired with a certain blend of tea. Little did I know while flipping through the pages that I'd consider changing my religion — from one who worships coffee to one who is ready to fall for one cup of hot tea. Chatting with Sahay, I realise I am not the first one to think of this conversion.

"My husband, Kunal, is a coffee person too, you know. His parents are ardent tea lovers, but they couldn't convert him. But this research, all the talk and all the writing, and everything has made him a tea lover. So now, morning and evening (he has) coffee, and in between, he has his tea," shares the tea sommelier and chef, before we delve into the specifics of her book.

Sip n' snack

A Sip in Time is Sahay's attempt to introduce readers to India's fine teas and the treats that go along with them. We may all be aware of the different variants from Assam, Arunachal Pradesh, Darjeeling and Munnar. The book unravels the making, the sub-varieties and a little bit of history on tea.

Sahay suggests a tea variety to induct someone into the world of tea. "Darjeeling second flush. It has a very subtle floral note. And it is not at all astringent or grassy like the Darjeeling first flush. Only tea devotees will love the bitterness that comes in the first flush or even the autumn flush too. But people who are just starting to get to know tea or get into the habit of drinking tea, I think they must start with the Darjeeling second flush; you just get soothed by it," she elaborates.



Sahay explains in the book that Darjeeling is the one city in the entire world where tea is cultivated throughout the year. The tea produced from February to April is the first flush, May-June is the second flush and October-November is the autumn flush.

Chai has always been part of Sahay's life. "When I was a child, my mom gave chai whenever we had a sore throat. She would add a little bit of salt and black pepper. That was the only good thing about falling ill," she says. Then there was chai during late-night study sessions while chatting with parents and hangouts at chai tapris. But it was only when this girl from Madhya Pradesh got married into a Bihari household that was she introduced to black tea. "It was Darjeeling first flush and I loved it," she shares.

But what was common in both these households was that the beverage was always served with a snack. And not just biscuits or a savoury. A lot of thought and effort went into it.

Kitchen conversations

Sahay's first book The Bhojpuri Kitchen was an ode to her marital home. With the belief that a city's culture comes through in its cuisine, Sahay set out to learn all about Bihari food from the family members. "I was noticing little cultural differences, especially the habits and the way the food was prepared. So whenever I went to Bihar, and whatever I ate, I asked for the recipe and I asked for the process. They showed it to me and we also talked a lot about food. My diary was full of it. My husband saw the diary and suggested we convert it into a book. The same thing happened with tea."

A Sip in Time, Sahay says, has the best of both worlds. Of chai and tea, which have become a big part of her life. And not a day goes by without sipping on at least seven cups of tea.

"Whenever my mother-in-law throws parties, she devises a menu. She also likes to bake a lot. She bakes something that will go well with tea, and I also did the same. So I had an idea of what snack went well with what kind of tea," she shares.

Research in an estate

But bringing out a book on tea required a good amount of research and Sahay got to spend time at the Darjeeling hills, a haven for tea connoisseurs. Soon, she also learned about the tea sommelier course, which she pursued and got a better understanding of the leaves, the process and its history. "So it became more of a travelogue and a recipe book," she adds.

With the book, Sahay wishes to give her readers the best tea time, either if they are drinking alone or having a party or a picnic. "They can have the best menu with the best tea with the best snacks and they can make the best of their tea time. Making some of these recipes can be relaxing too. Like bread recipes; they can help you unwind. There is a cinnamon bun recipe which is like meditation. It keeps your mind busy in a very unchallenging way. And that's the best kind of unwinding. And if you want to read the travelogue, you will discover about these places, the tea makers and be proud of your tea estates' heritage," she signs off.

MIXOLOGY

TEA can add intricacy and depth to your cocktails with a range of flavour options from fruity to herbal. It is perfect to balance out sweeter flavours or pair with herbal liquors. You can infuse tea right into a spirit or make a syrup with it. Tea can take the place of many ingredients because it packs so much intensity into such a small amount of liquid.

What I like most about incorporating tea into a cocktail recipe, are the bitter notes it brings to a cocktail in the most subtle way. Tea is also like scent. We can think of it in terms of different notes, each leading into another. Such deep flavours can't always be found in traditional cocktails, which is why tea is such a sensational and versatile ingredient.

Try these recipes to enjoy some delicious tea cocktails.

COLD BREW

● Hibiscus Tea/Lavender Tea Leaves - 1.5 tsp ● Cold water- 1 cup ● Infuse for 24hrs in a glass jar. Strain and use. ● For syrup: ● Water- 1 cup ● Sugar- 1 cup ● Tea- 1 tablespoon

Method: In a small saucepan, bring the water to the usual steeping temperature you'd use to steep the tea you're planning to flavour your syrup with. Strain and discard the tea leaves and bring the tea to a rolling boil over high heat. Add the sugar, reduce the heat and reduce the mixture to half its quantity. Cool and store.

Note: Hot water pushes tannins out of tea leaves more effectively than cold water, but you run the risk of extracting too much and ending up with a harsh liquid.

DOC VS DOC

● Gin- 45ml ● Blue Pea Tea- 30ml ● Lavender Tea Syrup- 10ml ● Dry Vermouth-15ml ● Ice ● Glassware- Martini glass

Method: Shake all ingredients with ice and pour into a chilled martini glass.

GG & TEA

● Hibiscus tea ice cubes- Fill the glass ● Gin- 60ml ● Lime Juice-10ml ● Tonic- To top ● Glassware - Tom Collin/Slim Jim

Method: Fill the glass with tea-flavoured ice cubes. The cubes can be made with your favourite tea.

Pour in the gin and lime juice. Top with tonic water. The ice cube will melt and impart its floral flavours into the drink. Garnish with a slice of orange. A simple drink packed with flavours.

DARSHAN DELIVERS
ENTERTAINMENT AND A STRONG SOCIAL MESSAGE

A SHARADHAA

DARSHAN is a bonafide star whose fanbase only expands with every entertainer he delivers. With Kranti he states that revolutions are born of hope. Through the hero's inner struggles, the film addresses the issues in the education system.

Albeit filled with abundant action for the masses Kranti has a universal message. With 12,000 government schools shut across Karnataka, resulting in about 75,000 jobless teachers, and over 20 lakh students affected, director Harikrishna uses this real-life situation to spin a story of a messiah redeeming people from hopelessness. He seems to have immense faith in Darshan's star power that he has gone ahead with a simplistic film filled with regular ingredients like action, romance, music, and punch dialogues.

The story revolves around Kranti Narayan (Darshan), a business tycoon, residing in Europe for 20 years abiding by his father Bhargav Narayan's (Ravichandran) instruction. Being an alumnus of a government school, he is invited by his favourite teacher (B Suresha) to attend the Centenary celebrations of the school. This event changes his life forever and he begins a revolution in the educational system. He takes the fight on with MNCs trying to take over the government schools, and does his effort bear fruits in the end? Tells the climax.

Darshan's first collaboration with Harikrishna, Yajamana, was based on a village and its fight to keep an oil company at bay, and Kranti yet again is packed with mass entertainment along with a social message.

And when the subject is about education, dramatic sequences of the plight of teachers, students, hungry media, corporate builders, and politicians among many other elements come to the fore as common occurrences, and Kranti does not disengage with any of them.

Harikrishna, who has roped in a mass hero to speak about an important issue like education, seem to be unbothered by the film's duration. Certain sequences set in a train during the first half feel rudderless, but the events in the second half add a lot of value to the overall output.

The anchor of the story is clearly Darshan's screen presence and stardom. Harikrishna often says, "Never underestimate the credibility of a star." and he has mounted his film based on this hope. Apart from the usual fights and songs, Darshan delivers impactful messages in Kranti.

Ravichandran delivers a memorable performance. Tarun Arora is definitely a new addition to the list of stylish villains. The rest of the actors including Ravi Shankar, Girija Lokesh, Umashree, Sumalatha, Mukhyamantri Chandru, Samyuktha Hornad, Vainidhi Jagadish, and Dharmanna Kadur add value to the film. Rachita Ram is seen in an adequate role, and as a typical commercial heroine appears in two songs.

Harikrishna, who is also the composer of the film, elevates the emotions with his background score. The songs Don't Mess With Him and Dharani are already ruling the playlists, Pushpavathi by Nimika Rathnakar and Bombe featuring a shirtless Darshan are celebration-worthy for the fans.

Cinematographer Karunakar scores with his visual pattern and angles. To sum up, Kranti, which comes with rich production value, is ably shouldered by Darshan. Aside from the usual masala, the audiences have a revolutionary message about education to take home while leaving the theatres.
